MODERN TOYS MORE COSTLL AND COMPLEX

Up-to-Date Youth Wants "Auto" With Spares and Lights.

NO TIN SOLDIER

Windshield And Tires Make Toy Motor Real Machine.

CHICAGO, Nov. 30—The shop windows of Chicago, crammed with toys in preparation for Christmas, demonstrate convincingly that had Little Boy Blue lived today he would have turned up his small nose at the Little Toy Dog and the Little Tin Soldier, with their dust and rust.

The toy makers—and who, better than they, know what youngsters want?—are of the opinion that the Little Boy Blues and their sisters of the present desire a certain refinement and eleaboration in their playthings. Simplicity has ceased to be their motif.

They make no more efforts to interest the young in little tin millers who climb poles with sacks of flour atop their heads or in cast-iron fire engines whose prancing steeds are doomed to a life of paralysis while at full gallop. The children, it seems, recognize these are stupid, silly and unworthy of a burgeoning intelligence.

MORALS LOOSE

Young Woman on "Probation" Until She Conquers Weed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30 — What prerequisites are essential to the young woman who essays to pilot the youth of the land along the flowery paths of knowledge?

Must she array herself in drab apparel, affect a somber mien, and eschew all propensities of youth? Or, on the other hand, should she freely exercise her personal preferences when outside the schoolroom—even to the extent of wearing knickers, smoking cigarets and drinking cocktails?

The issue has broken out like a rash in several communities hereabouts following the discharge of Miss Elizabeth Scholtze from the Orient (L. I.) schools for appearing in knickers and puffing the weed.

Betty, who is extremely pretty and has attained that independence of mind which dawns at the ripe age of 21, made no bones about exercising her personal prerogatives and maintained that it was nobody's business what she did outside the classroom. Her mother, when interviewed, supported her daughter's viewpoint and scorned the suggestion that she might take the young woman to task.

Discussing Betty's case, Frank A. Balsh, superintendent of the Weehawken (N. J.) School, declared that no such action would be taken in his district under similar circumstances.

So long as teachers conduct themselves "in a ladylike manner," the Weehawken official doesn't care whether they walk a mile for them, roll their own, drape their girlish figures in knee-breeches, or Stirring Thanksgiving Sermon By The Rev. Jos. A. Speer Features Annual Holiday Service Thurs.

POPE RECEIVES SPANISH RULERS IN SPLENDOR.

Medieval ceremonies at the Vatican were revived for the first time since 1870 when King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain were received by Pope Pius XI. The Spanish monarchs were seated on low thrones to the left, while the Pope occupied the Pontifical Throne in the centre of the Consistorial Hall. The Spanish rulers thrice bent the knee before the Pope, then kneeled and kissed the Pope's toe, thereby restoring the ancient cermonial to denote humility and the homage due by Catholic sovereigns. King Alfonso is shown kneeling before the Pope, while Queen Victoria is still seated on her throne

Co-operating Churches Unite in Thanksgiving Program at Grace M. E. Church—Sermon Is Printed in Full.

Every Protestant church in this city was well represented at the annual union Thanksgiving services, which were held at Grace M E church, Walnut and Fourth-sts Thursday morning

The services were most impressive. The Thanksgiving sermon was delivered by the Rev Joseph A Speer, pastor of the local Presbyterian church. The title of his sermon was "The Providence of God in a Nation's History."

The program opened with an organ prelude. A hymn followed and prayer was offered by the Rev C J McGee, of the U B church. An anthem was sung by the choir, after which the offertory was announced by the Rev W B Winters, pastor of Grace M E church

President Coolidge's Thanksgiving Proclamation was read by the Rev M W Wappner, of Emmanuel Lutheran church. After Hymn 545, which was announced by the Rev. O E Vice, of the M P Circuit, was sung, the Rev. Mr. Speer delivered his Thanksgiving sermon.

Following the sermon, the Rev J. S. Earheart, First Christian church, offered prayer. This was followed by a hymn announced by the Rev. W. M. Hart, Baptist church. Benediction was given and an organ postlude concluded the program.

Following is the Rev. Mr. Speer's entire sermon:

DEUT. 4:32-40.

"THE PROVIDENCE OF GOD IN A NATION'S HISTORY"

Thanksgiving is a holiday, peculiarly American, and significant of the best in our national and social life. There are times when our national motto, "In God We Trust," may seem to be no longer the true expression of our faith

Materialism has crept in and made its influence felt among many, but we believe that to those who represent the bone and sinew of American life, the faith of our fore-fathers is today a vital force and the traditions of former years more than matters of mere sentiment.

This Thanksgiving season is one in which we have every reason for gratitude as a nation to the God in whom we trust. The year has been one of prosperity in temporal affairs and also in spiritual blessing. Thus at this season of Thanksgiving we may well recount our many blessings and observe the national holiday with devout gratitude to our God.

These few verses in Deuteronomy, to which I have called your attention read very much like a condensed history of the United States.

If ever a nation could point to the finger of Providence in its history, we are that nation. God's hand can be seen as clearly in our history as in Hebrew history. The Bible teaches clearly that God has a hand in shaping events. As we follow the stately steps of divine providence in the marvelous movements that have been taking place in the affairs of our nation, we may well exclaim, "What Hath God Wrought!"

And so today I believe we should I Thank God for Our Past History. We are accustomed to date our history from the coming of Columbus. But let us not forget that, beyond doubt America was discovered and attempts made at settlement long before Columbus was born

According to the researches of not a few students of history, the Mohammedans, in an early day came very near the American coast, and would have effected a settlement had not their boats been destroyed at sea. Their fleet crossed and sailed far beyond the Straits of Gibraltar, but was wrecked in a tempest. This on

Ancient Laws Often Severe But Effective

Human Life Cheap if Ethical Questions Were Involved.

BEFORE MOSES

King of Babylon Had Heads Cut Off For Minor Offenses.

"As it was in the beginning is today official sinning."
Kipling

By DALE R. SCHILLING.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov 30 How precious human life has grown with the dawn of civilization is shown by a perusal of the laws of Hammurabi, sixth king of the first dynasty of Babylon

In the state law library here is a translation by Francis Harper, professor of Semitic languages at Chicago University in 1904, of Hammurabi's code, taken from a monument of black diorite found on the Acropolis of Susa in 1902 by a French expedition. It is from this code, scientists believe, that the laws of Moses were drafted The date is placed at 2250 B. C.

Hammurabi showed a grim and often just humor. Some of his statutes might well be adopted now. He made useless all alibis by physicians that the operation was successful, but the patient failed to recover from the shock, for Hammurabi decreed that the physician's fingers should be cut off in case of failure to save the patient.

"DEMOCRATIC SOUL."

That Hammurabi was a democratic soul was shown by his law freeing a tenant farmer from interest on a debt if his crop failed because of storms or other unpreventable conditions. However, the renter had to hustle, for the price of shiftlessness was payment to the landlord of an amount of grain estimated from neighboring fields. Also, the renter was forced to till all his land, for if he did not the barren patches were counted in his half of the "split" with the landlord

Hammurabi in a very efficient way cut to the heart of the stolen property problem. If a man charged that another had his property and could not prove it by competent witnesses, the plaintiff never again had to bother his head

COOLIDGE PLANS INVASION OF FORD'S STRONGHOLDS IN WESTERN FARMINIG REGIONS

Promise of Cheap Fertilizer from Muscle Shoals Under Ford Management Big Handicap to His Effort to Win Strength in Wheat Producing Section—Federal Government May Essay Task Ford Evolved.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright 1923.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—There are strong indications that President Coolidge will shortly make a bid for the voting power of the agricultural sections that have shown sentiment favorable to the candidacy of Henry Ford.

Analyzing the strength of Mr. Ford as reflected in letters received by the administration, the main pillar seems to be the demand of the farmer for cheaper fertilizer to cut down his costs of production and a belief that Henry Ford's plan to operate Muscle Shoals will accomplish that object.

Gray Silver, head of the American Farm Bureau, who now is in Europe, told Mr. Coolidge not only ago that he had been advised by experts that five cent fertilizer could be produced at Muscle Shoals. The market price of fertilizer is at least three times that sum and makes quite an item in the farmer's budget. With the low price of wheat, the farmer's costs are concerning him citally and if he could secure a cut in fertilizer it would increase his margin of profit especially if a foreign market for grain were some day to be established.

Mr Coolidge has let it be known that he believes fertilizer to be of such paramount importance to the welfare of the country that he would consider the federal govern-

DAMAGE SUIT IS FILED FOLLOWING AUTO ACCIDENT

Buggy Is Demolished, Horse Runs Off; Motorist Blamed.

Chris Beingesser, Coshocton Route 5, filed an affidavit in Justice D W Bassett's court, Friday against Joseph Crater, 1124 Main-st for the collection of $25 admages done to his buggy and harness Friday morning when the latter is alleged to have crashed into his buggy with his automobile

The accident occured on the River-rd at 7:15 o'cloc kthis morning. Beingesser says in the affidavit that he was driving on the right side of the road and that Crater ran his car into the horse and buggy. He says the buggy was demolished,the harness damaged and that the horse run off

Beingesser was thrown from the buggy and received slight bruises. Crater, altho he had not appeared before Justice Bassett Friday, claimed that an automobile coming in the opposite direction with bright headlights, blinded him and he could not see the buggy.

JEFFERSON BUREAU TO UNDERTAKE SIX PROJECTS NEXT YR.

At the annual Jeffersontp Farm Bureau reorganization, held at Parklin schoolhouse, Wednesday evening, officers were elected for the coming year as follows: Herman Kaser, chairman, Dwight Laughlin, vice chairman, and Hobart Moore, secretary-treasurer.

The program of work to be undertaken during the year includes live stock husbandry, cooperative marketing, crop improvement, poultry husbandry, soil building and club work.

The live stock project will be pledging 10 men to breed all lines of live stock to purebred sires only, encouragement of the use of hog capsules for the eradication of swine parasites, a feeding school in February, and a demonstration in lamb docking and castrating. Hobart Moore will lead this project.

The co-operative marketing program will include efforts to contract live stock for co-operative shipment, and wool for pooling thru the Ohio Sheep and Wool Growers' Association, and cream and eggs for co-operative shipment. Herman Kaser was elected supervisor of this work.

The crops work, with Harry Keser as leader, will have to do with the continuation of wheat variety standardization on Trumbull.

The poultry project will urge poultry keepers to feed the Ohio ration. John C Frederick will supervise the poultry work.

The soils program, under the leadership of G. P. Knowles, will be a permanent soil fertility demonstration field on Knowles' farm, application of three cars of lime on the farms of the township and a pasture demonstration meeting on the farm of Darling Brothers.

Club work, with Mrs. Henry Moore as leader, will comprise the organization of one girls' club at Mohawk and one girls' club at Warsaw.

MILD NOVEMBER PASSES WITHOUT A COVERING SNOW

The weather during November was the mildest it has been in November for many years, according to the local weather observer, George Leonard, Bridge-st.

With the exception of a few snow flurries November 9, the month passed without any snow.

The maximum temperature for the month was 64 on November 22 The minimum temperature was 15 on November 9. There were 14 clear days, 4 partly cloudy, 12 cloudy and 14 days of frost. The wind for the month was changeable. The rainfall for the month was 2.50 inches.

The maximum temperature for November, 1922 was 71 on November 3. The minimum temperature was 17 on November 23. The rainfall for November, 1922 was 1.43 inches.

The only snowfall for that month came on November 9, 1922

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS, L. C. SHAW, TO LEAVE PUBLIC SERVICE JANUARY 1

Assistant H. B. Pigman to Succeed as Head of System — Passing of Shaw Marks End of Nearly Half Century in Educational Work Here.

After nearly a half century of active school work, L. C. Shaw, county superintendent, will retire January 1. He will be succeeded by Henry B. Pigman, assistant county superintendent.

With his retirement, the schools of the county will lose a man whose unselfish and whole-hearted interest in his work was the means of bringing rural schools of this county up to their present standard.

As a teacher, few if any men of this county ever were as highly regarded. Wherever "Cass" Shaw taught, tuition students from all parts of the county attended. He took a personal interest in his students, not only while they were in school, but in after life. "One of my ambitions of life," Professor Shaw said, "was to assist boys and girls in a substantial way." He did. About 60 boys and girls owe financial or other substantial aid to him. More teachers have been produced by Professor Shaw than any other Coshocton-co teacher. He was one of the strictest instructors and would not tolerate an indifferent student. Either the indifference or the student soon was gone.

Mr. Shaw was born February 9,

DROVE LOCOMOTIVE NEARLY 70 YEARS

Veteran Engineer Has Ridden Two and a Half Million Miles in Lifetime.

VALLEY JUNCTION, Ia., Nov 30.—Lacking just two years of having spent three score years as an engineer on the Burlington Railroad, Ben F. Horton has retired and is writing a history of railroading from 1851 to the present day.

Horton believes that he holds the world's record for traveling. He estimates that he has traveled in his course of time as an engineer approximately 2,500,000 miles, or a little better than 100 times around the world

If Horton would have to pay three cents for each of the miles he has traveled he would have spent $75,000.

COUNTY WILL GO OVER THE TOP IN RED CROSS DRIVE

The Coshocton-co Red Cross Roll Call drive for members came to an end Thanksgiving Day and it was a big success financially, according to T. G Brown, secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, Frew building.

"Returns from 15 out of 25 city precincts and 11 out of 35 districts in the county, indicate the drive was gratifying," Mr Brown stated. He also said that, "early indications show that the county will go over the top and over-subscribe last year's total."

Not nearly all of the reports have been sent in. Three hundred solicitors worked consistently this year to help make the drive a success.

The Roll Call committee desires that all captains who have not yet sent in their reports, do so soon so the committee can make its report to the national headquarters. The Red Cross rooms are located in the Frew building and all reports should go there, Mr. Brown said.

JAY LAWRENCE TO SHOW GRAIN AT INT'L EXPOSITION

Mr and Mrs Jay Lawrence left Thursday morning for Chicago where they will show agricultural products corn, threshed grain, grain in the sheaf and small seeds, at the International Live Stock Exposition, next week.

Five thousand cattle horses sheep and hogs are entered in the individual fat and breeding classes at the International Live Stock Exposition. This does not include entries in the [illegible] show nor the large show of carloads of market animals

CONGREGATION TO CONSIDER CALL TO LANCASTER PASTOR

A congregational meeting of the membership of the Church of Christ will be held in the main auditorium of the church edifice, located at Main and Eighth-sts Sunday morning at 10:30, immediately after Sunday school.

The purpose of the meeting is to consider the proposition of extending a call to the Rev Mr O G White, of Lancaster, a candidate for the pulpit recently made vacant by the resignation of the Rev W. C Prewitt

The Rev Mr White preached a trial sermon in the local church on Wednesday evening and met the members of the congregation. It is considered highly probable that he will be invited to locate here.

Former Local Pastor Dies in Syracuse, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Page, 444 south Fourth-st, have received word announcing the death of the Rev H C Gaeper, which occurred at his home in Syracuse, N. Y., Sunday

Death was due to infirmities.

For a number of years the Rev Mr Graeper was pastor of the German Evangelical church in Coshocton, preaching in the old church formerly located in Locust st. It was under the Rev Mr Graeper's pastorate that the new St John's Evangelical church was erected.

The Gaeper family left Coshocton 12 years ago for Syracuse where they have since resided.

ENGLAND SOON TO BECOME NEIGHBOR THRU WIRELESS

LONDON, Nov 30 — England will become practically a next door neighbor of United States so far as communication is concerned, if Guglielmo Marconi, famous wireless inventor, is able to perfect an invention he has in mind

In an exclusive interview with International News Service today Marconi said:

The [illegible] experiments of the last few days have been most important. As a result I am undertaking experiments immediately whereby I hope to make it possible for the owners of crystal sets to receive trans-Atlantic broadcasting.

"This would be a wonderful advance. It would mean bringing the nations into the closest touch.

NEWCOMERSTOWN HAPPENINGS OF LIVE INTEREST

By Staff Correspondent

TEN MILES OF ROAD PROMISED

Improvement of ten miles of road between Stonecreek and Newcomerstown at the expense of the state, will be made next summer It was learned Friday

The unimproved gap between Coshocton and Newcomerstown and the Newark-Columbus pike are to be paved. When the Coshocton-Newark road is paved, Tuscarawas co residents will have a direct surfaced road into Columbus by way of Newcomerstown, Coshocton and Newark.

The Tuscarawas-co good roads boosters hope that the Newcomerstown-Stonecreek road will be paved.

BUILD POWER LINE

The Ohio Service Co. power line has been completed to a point somewhere between Philo and Newcomerstown and some steel has been laid on the ground for the perfect tower between Newcomerstown and New Philadelphia.

The transmission line will not touch Dover, but will pass a mile from the Shanesville bridge at the outskirts of that city. It will pass thru Newcomerstown and New Philadelphia.

TAXES LOWERED

The 1923 tax rate in nearly every one of the taxing districts in Tuscarawas-co are lower than they were in 1922, figures show. This announcement was made Wednesday by County Auditor Schlegel, New Philadelphia.

The county rate this year, based upon a valuation of $1,000 is $5.11 as compared with $5.20 last year. The state rate is $2.95 as compared with $4.175 in 1922.

Following is a compariosn of 1922 and 1923:

	1922	1923
Newcomerst'n school	$18.00	$18.60
N. C. T. Corp.	21.00	20.50
Baltic school	18.40	17.40
Baltic Corp	20.80	20.20
Gnaden Corp.	19.60	20.20
Gnaden school	18.40	20.60

The Uhrichsville rate is the coutny's rate with $24.80.

ATTEND FUNERAL

The out-of-town friends who attended the William McConnell funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Warwick, and Samuel Warwick, all of Coshocton; W. S. Coder, of Akron; Jesse Pratt, of Columbus; George Tidrick, Columbus; Mrs. C. E. Barton, Columbus; Mrs. Sue Wilcoxen and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Wurm, of Uhrichsville; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Neiderhauser and daughter, Pauline, of West Lafayette.

AUTOS COLLIDE

Ceci Blackburn, Canton, received a badly cut right hand Thursday morning when a Ford sedan in which he was riding and another Ford car, in which was riding an employe of the Ohio Service Co. collided near Port Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wigfield and Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn, all from Canton were in the sedan. They were enroute to spend the day with Mr and Mrs. Adam Wigfield, Pearl-st. Newcomerstown, Clarence Wigfield's parents

The sedan was moving west and the other car was going east. Both car were damaged. Blackburn was the only occupant hurt.

HUNTERS THICK

Hundreds of nimrods from Newcomerstown and vicinity roamed the fields and woods yesterday in pursuit of cotton tails. Many started out early in order to have a good day's hunt.

The hunters claim that the rabbits are plentiful this year. The hunters will have one more holiday in which to hunt rabbits without buying new licenses. That is Christmas Day. All who expect to hunt on January 1, 1924, will have to purchase 1924 licenses.

SPLENDID SERVICE

The best Protestant Union Thanksgiving services in the history of Newcomerstown, were held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock in the M. P. church.

The Thanksgiving sermon was preached by Rev. Glenrole McQueen. He took for his subject, "God's Enduring Mercies." His address was one of the best of its kind heard in Newcomerstown in years.

A big offering was taken for charitable purposes. The church was filled to capacity.

MRS. TIDRICK DIES

Mrs. Sarah Tidrick, aged 84, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lewis Houston, near Gilmore, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Her death was due to cancer.

The aged woman had made her home with her daughter for a long time. She had been a sufferer for several years.

She was a member of the Church of Christ.

Her husband died years ago.

No funeral arrangements had been made Fiday.

DILLEHAY RESIGNS

It has not been announced by the James B. Clow & Sons Co. who will fill the pace to be made vacant by Harry Dillehay, who has served that company as cost accountant for many years. His resignation is to become effective on December 15.

Mr. Dilehay has accepted a position with the Baltimore clothing store. Main-st.

BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. Milan Meyer was hostess to the Bridge club at her home on North College-st, Tuesday evening. The following enjoyed the evening: Mrs. E. F. Duff, Mrs. W. A. Beers, Mrs. Ralph Brumbaugh Misses Mae and Twilla McElroy, Bess Evans and Eleanor Lutz.

Dainty refreshments were served.

GAME POSTPONED

Rain prevented the football game between the Coshocton Boy Scout troop and the Newcomerstown Boy Scouts Thursday at Athletic Field. Newcomerstown. The two Scout troops had been planning on enjoying themselves when Jupe Pluvius paid Newcomerstown a visit in the afternoon.

BUSINESS QUIET

With the exception of the pool rooms, news stand, restaurants and the theatre, Newcomerstown business was suspended yesterday in celebration of Turkey Day.

The Newcomerstown schools closed down Wednesday afternoon. School will be resumed Monday.

INSPECTION HELD

The Royal Neighbors held their inspection in the lodge hall Wednesday night with Jessie McGory, district deputy in charge. After the inspection a fine supper was served to the members in attendance.

ARREST A MAN

Newcomerstown police were called to Post Boy late Thursday night, where they expected to arrest Bert Larrison. Larrison was intoxicated, the police wee informed before making the trip to Post Boy.

MODERN TOYS

mediately after breakfast on December 25 used to truddle out his new, shining red "racer" automobile with its simple ratchet crank and lights only painted on and pedal it up and down in great glee usually matured into a man who shaved himself and was happy in three rooms, kitchen and bath.

"REAL" AUTOMOBILES.

But this Christmas his son will climb into a toy motor car so ponderous that he can move it only with difficulty. It is hung from fender to fender with accessories.

There are nickel-plated drum-head lamps with real electric bulbs [illegible] and a battery with a switch beneath the steering gear. There is a spare wheel and tire fastened [to] the rear and, in the case of more [costly] types, several spare wheels and tires.

The windbreak is not make-believe glass, either. Its edges are beveled and it can be adjusted like those of big motor cars. The electric horn has a terrifying screech that doubtless will frighten pedestrians off sidewalks and into streets where the big automobiles may run them down conveniently.

The rubber tires are thick things, not the skimpy tubes that you and I found on our Christmas automobiles. Besides, they are cored into [illegible] treads. The racer has chains also to prevent rainy day skidding. Quite an automobile.

When its young driver grows up he doubtless will not be content to shave himself or live in a flat. He'll need [illegible] and a hotel apartment suite.

COST NO OBJECT.

Other toys are correspondingly elaborate. One Chicago store is displaying an electrically operated village that appears to have been designed by an Edison or a Steinmetz. Its inhabitants move about and perform all their duties by electricity.

Most interesting is a bake-shop, where one red-haired baker, with a sly grin, is mixing dough with flour-covered arms. Up and down he churns it. An electric boy, whose breath of life comes out of the wall switch, dusts krinkels with powdered sugar, another baker with a Scaramouche nose pushes loaves into the oven with a long, wooden paddle and a women stacks crullers and jelly-rolls in a window.

Just from a look about the shops it appears that the Little Tin Soldier never can expect to come back unless he gets a manicure, a Sam Browne belt, a new uniform, a shave and a shine, nor can the Little Toy Dog expect to get anywhere if he does not get his mane clipped and prove that he is related directly to Strongheart.

The Guatemalan government has had porcelain money made in Europe to replace some hard rubber currency it has been using.

Passengers and mail are being carried by a new air service linking London, Paris, Basel and Zurich, while the London-Cologne service has been extended to Prague.

You Can Quickly Limber Up Sore, Stiff, Swollen Joints

Even Chronic Rheumatic Swellings in Knee, Elbow, Shoulder or Finger Joints Yield to the Mighty Powerful Influence of JOINT-EASE.

It's here, right in town and Wimmer-Arnold Co. and every live druggist has it.

It's a low price remedy, to be sure, but that doesn't stop it from taking the kinks, lameness or torture out of your troubled joints.

Joint-Ease is the name, so called because it is compounded solely for the purpose of relieving all joint ailments.

Just rub it on the tormented, lame joints and in just a few seconds it will penetrate to the bone and blessed comfort comes quickly.

It absorbs instantly and is so clean and stainless that you can rub it on often and get thereby, results much more quickly, when the joint is inflamed and the agony intense.

Being such a powerful counter irritant, it cannot help bringing speedy and helpful results in congestion, sore throat, chest colds, lumbago and neuralgia much quicker than almost any remedy you can buy.

But you must remember that it is for joint afflictions that it is mostly dispensed and its helpfulness will astonish you after all ordinary liniments and other treatments have failed.

"A Little Further Down But It Pays to Walk."

MRS. HINCKLEY NERVOUS WRECK

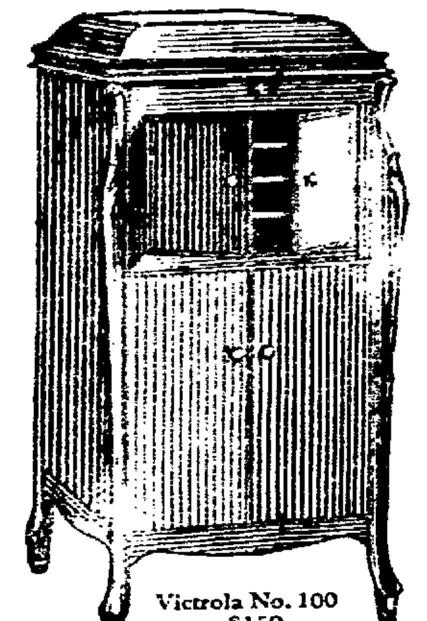

Tells How She Was Restored to Perfect Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

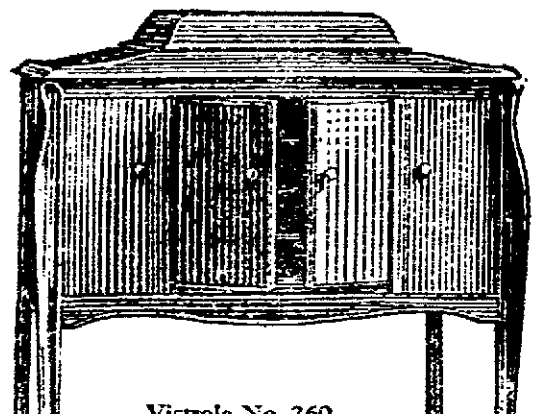

Memphis, Tenn.—"Two years ago I was completely run-down and my nerves were a wreck. I could not sweep a room without resting. I could not do my work except a little at a time, and the doctor's medicine did not help me. One day some one threw your little book on to my porch, and in it I read several testimonials of women who had been like myself. I went right out and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and before I had taken the whole of that bottle I knew it was helping me. I took six bottles, and then in about three months I took two more. Now I am in perfect health. I do all of my own work and could do more. I can truly say that I know Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound gave me my health."—Mrs. C. J. HINCKLEY, 316 Union Ave., Memphis, Tenn.

		DOUBLE-FACED Number	List Price
A Kiss in the Dark (from "Orange Blossoms") (de Sylva-Herbert) / Kiss Me Again (from "Mlle. Modiste") (Blossom-Herbert)	Amelita Galli-Curci / Amelita Galli-Curci	959	$1.50

Here is the highly unusual combination of two Victor Herbert "waltz-songs," sung in English by no less an artist than this great coloratura mistress of the art of song.

Letter Song (from "Apple Blossoms") Violoncello Solo / I'm in Love (from "Apple Blossoms")	Hugo Kreisler / Hugo Kreisler	956	1.50

These two sprightly numbers for the violoncello are taken from Fritz Kreisler's music to "Apple Blossoms." Fritz Kreisler himself plays the accompaniments at the piano.

Melodious Instrumental

Turkey in the Straw Violin Duet / Ragtime Annie Violin Solo	Henry C. Gilliland-A. C. (Eck) Robertson / A. C. (Eck) Robertson	19149	.75

Two old-fashioned dance numbers by genuine cowboy fiddlers. Theirs is genuine American, not hybrid, music. You will find such musicians, today, only in out-of-the-way places.

Light Vocal Selections

By the Watermelon Vine / Louisiana Lou	Shannon Quartet / Shannon Quartet	19142	.75

Many people like these male quartets in "close-harmonied" Southern style. Both sung with beautiful smoothness and harmonic sense, to the full orchestra.

I'm Sitting Pretty in a Pretty Little City / Alabamy Blacksheep	Albert Campbell-Henry Burr / Peerless Quartet	19180	.75

If you have a liking for sentimental music, in fox trot time, with two tenors, with a big orchestra and heavy piano-work, this duet will captivate you. "Alabamy Blacksheep" adds two more singers and does it again.

You Can't Make a Fool Out of Me / Pal of My Dreams	Henry Burr / Charles Hart	19181	.75

There are dramatic touches in these two songs of common-place life for the tenor voice with the orchestra. They are two of the greatest achievements of these artists.

Dance Records

Sleep—Waltz / The West, a Nest, and You—Waltz	Waring's Pennsylvanians	19172	.75

First Victor record by the famous touring orchestra grown from a Pennsylvania State College dance quartet. "Sleep" is highly original, with a vocal chorus. "The West, a Nest, and You" is an excellent companion.

Rememb'ring—Fox Trot (from "Topsy and Eva") / Salt Your Sugar—Fox Trot	Joe Raymond and His Orchestra	19178	.75

"Rememb'ring" is a pleasant fox trot, agreeable to dance to. The Duncan Sisters wrote it—you will hear a reminiscence of childhood play. "Salt Your Sugar" is another excellent fox trot.

Moonlight Kisses—Fox Trot (from "Greenwich Village Follies") / Music of Love—Fox Trot (from "Artists and Models")	Joe Raymond and His Orch. / International Novelty Orchestra	19179	.75

These numbers have exceedingly romantic titles, but they are wholesome, jolly numbers, free of overstrained sentiment. "Moonlight Kisses" uses a plaintive type of refrain, but elsewhere it is full of life. "Music of Love" is finely scored.

TOMAKA CASE IS INVESTIGATED BUT NO PROTEST FILED

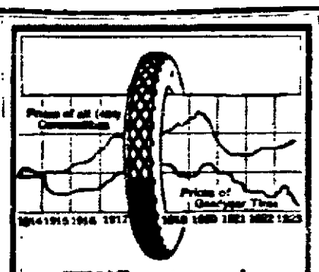

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30 — The British government is observing unusual caution in ascertaining the facts governing the seizure of the rum ship Tomaka before making it an issue with the United States that might imperil the proposed 12 mile limit treaty.

Officials of the British embassy here stated today no protest has yet been filed with the state department nor will there be until the British consul at New York, who is investigating, reports the circumstances to be such as to justify action.

The American government it was said, considers the Tomaka case to come within the scope of the Henry L. Marshall case, in which the United States supreme court decided American customs agents acted within the law by seizing the British ship because it carried a false manifest and had established contact with the American shore at night to unload its contraband cargo of rum.

Vessels cannot with impunity evade American laws even tho they float the flag of a friendly foreign country the court held, and in the Tomaka case the government expects to prove the sole mission of the Tomaka was to peddle liquor along the American coast.

The position of the British government has already been laid informally before the state department, it was learned today, altho no protest has been made. British diplomatic officials, however, have informed the department that if the Tomaka's registry and papers are found to be in order, a protest will be forthcoming, accompanied by a demand for the surrender of the ship and "Bill" McCoy, the rum running skipper.

WHEN SLICKY SKUNK MOVED INTO THE MEADOW LANDS.

YOU should have seen Gray Squirrel when he spied the newcomer. He flipped his tail first one way then another, and hurried over to Chatty Chipmunk's as fast as his legs would carry him.

"Say, but he's a fine-looking fellow," Gray Squirrel cried, and they ran over to Bunny Rabbit's burrow to tell him the news.

"What's he like?" asked Bunny Rabbit, all excited. "Is he white, black, green or yellow?"

"Don't Be Frightened."

"Well, I should say he's about as big as Chatty Chipmunk and me together," began Gray Squirrel. "His coat is a silky black with lovely white stripes. And my, but you should see his lovely big tail!"

"As large as yours?" queried Bunny Rabbit.

"Larger than mine. He——" here Gray Squirrel hesitated and winked at his friends. "Hush, here he comes now," he said. "I wonder what——"

But before Gray Squirrel could voice his wonder, the newcomer walked up to the three friends.

"Good-morning, folks," he called gayly. "I'm Slicky Skunk."

"Slicky Skunk!" exclaimed the three friends in one breath. Then they all looked as if they were going to turn and run, when Slicky Skunk spoke again.

"Don't be frightened," he laughed. "I never use my gun unless in self-defense. Really I'm perfectly harmless."

"Then it's true that you do carry a gun?" queried Gray Squirrel. "I've heard that all skunks carry them."

"Yes, they do," replied Slicky Skunk. "But they never use them unless they are cornered. Then, too, before I shoot, I wag my tail and growl. That gives my enemy fair warning. If he's wise he'll run before I cover him."

"And is it true," asked Chatty Chipmunk, who had heard about Slicky Skunk before, "that you burrow in the ground as we do?"

"Not if I can help it," laughed Slicky Skunk. "I just found a house for rent over yonder and I rented it."

"Sure enough, Jimmy Chuck's old place," laughed Bunny Rabbit. "Well, we're glad to welcome you, neighbor, and we hope you'll like our meadow-land."

"I've heard you steal birds," began Gray Squirrel. Then every one giggled.

"I guess I'm not the only one who likes them," laughed Slicky Skunk. Every one laughed out loud then and Gray Squirrel hung his head.

"We're glad to have you with us, anyway," he said rather sheepishly.

They asked in all the little meadow folks that night and had a frolic. And the sun was peeking up over the hill-tops before the meadow folks tumbled into bed.

The Night Before the Operation at the Hospital.

WHEN the occasion demands it, Dicky possesses—and exercises—tact and thoughtfulness to a superlative degree. And never was he in better form than during the trying evening preceding little Mrs. Durkee's hospital operation.

With Lillian potentially hysterical, with Alfred nerve-shaken and gloomy, Dicky managed things so that they had no time for apprehensive thought. The restaurant to which he took us for dinner was one noted for its oddity and the colorful characters who frequented it. Dicky had discovered two things concerning it—that it was possible to secure simple and good food, well served, and that a table tucked up would insure one a secluded table where one could observe and yet not share the bizarre gayety of the place.

"They can't help watching things in spite of themselves," Dicky whispered to me before we started, "and yet we'll be so out of it that they won't figure themselves a part of the gayety, which of course would be unspeakable to-night. Play up all you can, old girl. They're going to have a hard enough night as it is. I'd like to tire them out beforehand so they would sleep in spite of themselves."

"We might walk to the hospital from the restaurant," I suggested. "Neither of them is much used to walking, and it's almost two miles up there."

Tiring Them Out.

"Bully idea," Dicky approved. "But—aren't you too tired?" with a quick solicitude which warmed my foolish heart.

"Not too tired for a walk after dinner," I returned.

"Will there be anything to carry?"

"Only that absurdly small overnight bag of Leila's. Alfred and you had the rest of the things."

Dicky frowned. Like most city men he hates to carry the tiniest package.

"We'll leave it here," he decided, "and when they've made up their minds where they're going to stay to-night, I'll get a taxi and take it over to them."

I repressed a caustic comment upon the absurdity of this plan, for I remembered an old adage which Lillian frequently quotes.

"Don't stir up the animals," she advises. "If they're good-natured, thank your stars and don't start anything."

This admonition was not the only [illegible] I kept in mind during the evening. I tried conscientiously to obey Dicky's injunction to "play up," and had the satisfaction of seeing Leila's eyelids drooping with fatigue when we reached the hospital [illegible] where Dicky had taken [illegible] Alfred [illegible]

[illegible] came down to us in the [illegible] a winsome yet martial [illegible]

Five Minutes Only.

[illegible] you all for [illegible] she [illegible] she put up a warning finger [illegible] cheerful as possible and I want to keep her so."

She led us out of the room to the elevator, and in another minute we were standing in the pleasant room which Alfred had provided for his mother, a room heavy-scented by blossoms in careful and fragrant which both Alfred and Dicky had sent, and in which little Mrs. Durkee, daintily gowned, with even a rose placed coquettishly in her hair, sat as if enthroned, and smiled brightly at us.

"I was just determined I'd see you all, and I made that doctor promise he'd let me," she said with a little toss of her head. "I tell you I'm going to be an awful tyrant when I get out of here."

"If anybody dares to disobey your commands," Dicky said truculently, "just show 'em to me, that's all, just show 'em to me."

We all laughed, none more heartily than the little woman whose fate lay upon the knees of the gods. But underneath the laughter was the stark fear, which we kept under iron control while we were in that peaceful room, but which leaped to our eyes when we had bidden our loved little friend a purposely gay farewell.

Advice to Girls

By ANNIE LAURIE.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

1.—We are two young girls in our teens and are both interested in the same young man. When he is out with one he tells her of his affection and while out with the other he tells her the same thing. How may we find out which one he loves better?

2.—Is it correct for a young man to rest his arm around the back of the seat in which you are sitting?

3.—Is it correct for a young lady to sit out in a car while at a dance or after arriving at home?

4.—Should a young man be allowed to call at your home when your parents are not at home?

5.—Is it right for a young lady to allow a young man to kiss her after he has told her of his love?

KISSES AND HUGS.

KISSES AND HUGS: 1—The young man probably considers you both as friends, my dears. Do not think of him too seriously, but instead have a jolly time with all your friends. There is no way of knowing that he loves you unless he asks you to become his wife.

2—No.

3—No. Join your friends at the dance. It is not proper to linger outside your home when it is late.

4—You should not entertain him alone. Have some older friend over if your parents are out at the time.

Significant Incidents in the Lives of Famous Women

By MARK STUYVESANT

The Foolish Queen Who Became a Wanderer.

THE so-called "new woman" who possesses in such marked degree the courage of her convictions that she is willing to brave public criticism for the sake of putting her beliefs into effect is fondly regarded as a product of the current day.

But she is not.

Ever so long ago—back in the early seventeen hundreds—a girl baby was born into the royal house of Sweden who was destined to become more aggressively "modern" than any woman of this century has dared to be.

For not only did she follow her incidentally she encouraged the arts in her country by patronizing artists and literary men, though she showed aversion to members of her own sex.

Many royal suitors tried for her hand, but she appeared to believe that she might care for the interests of her people better with no consort. And indeed she helped to accomplish such important events as the Peace of Westphalia, which confirmed Sweden in the possession of many important countries.

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Helps That Are Hiding in the Broom Closet.

IT is astonishing how many things we need, or think we need, to keep our houses clean. Housewives far and near take unto themselves all the cleaners offered and then cry for more.

To begin with, the brush family has grown to amazing proportions and now seems to fit all of our needs. Perhaps the newest brush, if we may call it a brush, is made with a soft felt fringe which absorbs the dust on polished floors, polishing them at the same time. Vigorous shaking cleans the brush for the next usage, as it does not retain dirt even as much as the old bristle brushes did.

The new black bristle brush, shaped like a letter "S," is especially adapted to cleaning silk draperies and lamp-shades that have a delicate or embroidered surface. For sweeping days there are muslin shade-covers to slip right on over the silk lamp-shades and keep them dust-free. These shade-covers are especially valuable when we go away for the Summer and leave the lamps for weeks exposed to dust and dirt. The covers are easy to make and muslin is cheap, so anyone may have this protection for a song.

Cambric dust sheets should be part of every housewife's cleaning outfit. The sheets are light, effective and business like in appearance. It may sound a bit extravagant to talk of silk dusters, but they are really superior to all other kinds for pianos and polished surfaces. They need not be of new silk, but of worn-out garments. Old silk vests may be opened and the straps cut off for this purpose, or old negligees may be cut up and used if made of soft India, Japanese or Chinese silk.

Old bedspreads may be cut up for floor-cloths as they make wonderfully good ones. Even polished floors should be washed once in a while with a little luke-warm water and white soap to remove the dust that continued oiling rubs in until it blackens a light floor or makes a dark one look muddy.

One housewife has a unique polisher for hardwood, polished floors in a stuffed pantaloon leg from a discarded pair of her husband's pantaloons tied at either end. The [illegible] is grasped at [illegible] and been moved back and forth over the surface. This same woman has adopted the custom of putting her floor-oil into a small enamel-ware pitcher instead of letting her helper use the big can and slop it onto the cloth at will. Then what is left after each polishing may be easily turned back into the can. As the cloth is not dipped into the pitcher, the oil is not in any way soiled.

Though there are many varieties of cloths used to wash windows, the old reliable chamois is the most satisfactory. If a large one is bought, it may be cut in half. After the windows are washed, clean the chamois with luke-warm water. When it is nearly dry, rub it soft, then let it dry thoroughly before putting it away and it will last twice as long. Before washing a window, it is a good idea to brush the outside with a small paint brush. This will not scratch the glass and it removes coarse dust before the window is wet.

ODD and INTERESTING FACTS from EVERYWHERE

[illegible] a naturalist, "I was told that so far searching had resulted in bringing to light only twelve eggs, all of which are resting in glass cases in museums throughout the world. Some of the first eggs that the natives discovered measure from two and a half feet to three feet in circumference and hold as much as two gallons, or as much as from twelve to sixteen dozen ordinary hens' eggs would hold. The natives used the shells for containing drinks. The aepyornis resembled an ostrich, though it must have been considerably taller. It had no wings suitable for flying. A leg of the bird in the British Museum measures about six feet. A perfect specimen of the aepyornis's egg was recently sold for $1,000.

YOUR HEALTH

Count Good Health as a Thanksgiving Blessing

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

DR. COPELAND

EVERY good American has reason to rejoice on Thanksgiving Day if 1923 has blessed him with good health. This year has been filled with wars and rumors of war, but if you and yours are well and strong, free from acute chronic disease, you may well thank God on this day set apart for joy and thanksgiving.

If we think of this anniversary as a day of rejoicing over our national blessings, we have a right to be happy. The year has been notable for its freedom from epidemics of diseases. While other countries have suffered from famine, flood and earthquake, we have been spared these horrors.

It is meet, right and our bounden duty to lift our eyes to Almighty God and devoutly thank Him for His manifold blessings. We do this with humble hearts.

Should we not on such a day renew our pledges of upright living, promising that no wilful acts of ours shall mar a second of the year to come?

To my mind a day of rejoicing is almost a selfish day unless it serves also as a reminder of better performances in the year to follow. In our celebration of this day, therefore, let us pledge ourselves, among other worthy things, to the active support and practice of all measures making for individual and national health.

The Pilgrim Father endured endless trials and countless dangers which happily we escape. The Pilgrim Mother, bear in mind, had to endure all that the Pilgrim Father did and, besides, she had to put up with the Pilgrim Father too!

When I think about the olden times, I think about the sacrifices made by the pioneer women. The spinning, the weaving, the making up the heavy garments for the family, the knitting of the socks and mittens, the fashioning of the skins of animals into jackets, caps and shoes—these were woman's duties. The baking, the smoking and curing of the meats, the carving, the pickling and preserving, the trying out of the grease and the making of the candles—these were woman's duties. But their duties did not end here. Who was the nurse, the orderly, the doctor in most ailments? The Pilgrim Mother.

As a nation and as individuals we owe everything to the pioneers. Their bravery, patience and foresight have produced a sturdy race. Those of us who enjoy great privileges to-day should add a word of praise and thanksgiving for what our forefathers and foremothers did for this land, free and happy because they suffered and wearied not.

One of the greatest of our blessings is the American insistence upon the rules of health. In the home, in the school, in the factory there is teaching about health. Municipal, township, state and national boards of health spread wide the knowledge of how to live and how to avoid disease. The span of life is increasing—eleven years in the last half century.

To-day, good friends, we can thank God and take courage!

Answers to Health Questions.

S. S. Q.—I am a young man twenty-seven years of age. Two years ago I was operated on for rupture and have been wearing a truss ever since. I seem to be having a recurrence of my former trouble. Will you kindly advise me how to go about treatment for this condition?

A.—Consult the physician who performed the operation for an examination to determine the cause of the trouble and follow whatever advice he gives you.

ANXIOUS. Q.—Will you kindly tell me whether or not pyorrhea can be permanently cured?

A.—No, pyorrhea cannot be permanently cured, but the progress of the disease can be checked by having systematic treatment under the direction of a competent dentist.

J. F. C. Q.—Will you kindly advise me as to whether or not cancer and tuberculosis are hereditary?

A.—These diseases are not hereditary. However, the tendency toward them is.

J. D. R. Q.—Will you kindly tell me what causes a pain under the knee when I bend it?

A.—This may be due to some injury. You should consult an orthopedist for an examination and then treatment will be suggested.

M. W. Q.—Will you kindly tell me what makes my face dry? I use cold cream, but this does not help.

A.—If you have been in the habit of using soap on your face, discontinue its use. Wash your face with cold water. This will tend to help the condition.

J. K. Q.—Is frequent wetting helpful to the hair?

2.—Is vaseline harmful or in any way beneficial to the hair?

A.—Slightly dampening the hair will not injure it, but excessive use of water is decidedly harmful.

2.—Vaseline supplies oil to the scalp, which, in some people, is lacking.

• • •

N. W. Q.—Will you kindly advise me whether or not it is harmful to apply water to hair that is naturally wavy?

A.—Water tends to dry the oil in the hair, and if this practise is continued, the hair will eventually fall out.

Diary of a Fashion Model

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

She Describes a Girlish Evening Frock.

"MOST of the gowns of this season are so sophisticated looking that a simple, girlish frock attracts attention by its very 'differentness'," remarked Pam, who had been to the opening night of new musical comedy and was telling us about all the costumes.

"Did the heroine go in for simple effects?" asked Haidee.

"Yes, and her gowns were perfectly charming. I think she must be very clever to wear that type of dress when everybody around is wearing clothes of just the opposite type," said Pam.

"Won't you tell us about some of them? You've been telling us how lovely they were, but you've made no effort to tell us how they were made."

"She wore one evening gown," answered Pam, obligingly, "that was the very thing we used to think of when we pictured Miss Sixteen at her first dance. That, of course, was before the days when you couldn't distinguish Miss Sixteen from her grown-up sister."

"How was it made?" asked Haidee.

"What was the material?" I inquired.

"What color was it?" demanded Gaby.

"One at a time, please," begged Pam. "I can't think of a thing when you all speak at once. The color, Gaby, was a lovely jade green, and the material was crepe georgette. This is the way it was made," and Pam began to sketch rapidly.

"The bodice was very simple and straight and slightly bloused, cut perfectly square and fairly low at the neck."

Pam sketched the narrow bands made in one piece with the bodice that went over the shoulders.

"Now the skirt was rather full and very soft and gathered on over the bodice with a little ruffle of the material left above the stitching. The bottom was scalloped into a petal design."

"It sounds delightful. Was there any trimming on it?"

"At the side was a double row of silver leaves. That was the only trimming on the dress. But she wore a most unusual ornament around her neck—nothing less than a necklace of the same little silver leaves. It looked very charming and gave just the right finishing touch to the costume. She wore nothing in her hair."

"A more effective and simple costume I've not seen in many a day," commented Haidee, looking at the finished sketch.

Silver Leaves Provide the Contrast for This Jade Green Georgette Gown.

HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

This should be a lively and interesting day, according to the dominant astral rulings. The significant event may prove to be the removal of some stubborn obstacle, although immediate financial benefit may not be looked for, but rather a steady advancement toward good fortune. In the domain of home and heart there may be happy and prosperous conditions, but a certain amount of discretion is enjoined lest there be later regret.

Those whose birthday it is have a generally fortunate year to look forward to, the main feature of which may be the removal of an old obstacle, making way for steady progress. In pleasure and society experiences may be pleasant, but they should not be nullified by indiscretion. A child born on this day will be popular, kind and generous but may be inclined to work against its best interests by undue pursuit of pleasure unless it is well trained.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga. (Adv.)

SAGE TEA DARKENS HAIR TO ANY SHADE

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied, with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

What The Craig Case Is Not.

WHETHER Comptroller Craig's complaint about Judge Mayer's handling of a traction receivership was true or untrue is not the point. Exaggeration of the facts by an official freeing his mind in a letter to another official is the least of the issues involved in the Craig case, if it is an issue at all. Those who, in Congress or in courts, wish to see some tangible public benefits arise from the current discussion should guard against side paths invitingly indicated by interested politicians.

The real issues are many enough and big enough. It is to be hoped that some of them will be weighed in the inquiry President Coolidge has ordered. Was Craig's alleged contempt an obstruction of justice? Is running a street railroad year after year proper business for a Federal court? Should a co-receiver be denied to a city for a business in which it has invested millions? Should a Judge sit both as Judge and jury in his own case? Should there be a jury trial for alleged contempt committed out of court? Should the Supreme Court of the United States, having taken a wrong turn in a case five years ago, be henceforth perpetually barred by its own precedent from rendering justice to other Craigs?

These are questions which may concern all officials and all communities. Whether in the Nixon letter Craig overstepped exactitude is quite a minor matter. He has become a national issue, not as one man who may not go to jail, but as a signpost of dangers that potentially are nation-wide.

Better Than Strikes.

BRITISH labor entered politics, gradually became a power in Parliament, and recently thru its chief spokesman, Philip Snowden, moved that capitalism was a failure. The question was debated, capitalism's champions having the best of the argument. Labor having nothing better to offer, the motion was voted down, and so the matter rests.

American labor, avoiding direct participation in politics, has relied upon the strike as its chief weapon. But its forward-looking leaders have recognized the destructive character of this form of protest, and have begun to make use of capitalism itself to protect labor's interests, in the form of labor banks.

There are 15 labor banks in existence today, with total resources approaching $50,000,000. These banks, like other national banks, have the privilege of issuing their own notes, of which about $1,000,000 worth are already in circulation. The movement is growing, 20 more banks being in process of formation. And the public is showing its faith in the union banking institutions by swelling their deposits.

By becoming capitalists themselves, as shareholders in these banks, by reaping the profit coming to the banks from outside investment, by acquiring an actual interest in other industries thru their purchase of stock in these industries, and by starting co-operative enterprises with their own money, the labor unions will gradually acquire an important interest in industry, with proportionate responsibility. It is the best answer to the Socialists and Third Internationale. The American labor-capitalists will laugh to scorn the Marxist who tells him that capitalism is doomed. Lloyd George warned Great Britain that the evils of capitalism must be remedied. American labor may show the world how to remedy many of those evils.

The Klan In Our Midst.

CONCERNING the invasion of Missouri by the Klan The St. Louis Post-Dispatch says:

"When the 700 inhabitants of Mokane, Callaway County, Mo., awoke Sunday morning, they found Ku Klux Klan posters had been put up thruout the 'business district,' warning bootleggers, gamblers, home-breakers and all law violators to observe the law, charging the city officials to do their duty and giving Catholics notice to get out, in the statement that 'we have no room in this community for the enemies of our free public schools.'

"And with these posters claiming for the klan the right to enforce the law and offering the officers of the law 'undivided support,' the people of Mokane got the Sunday Post-Dispatch, with the True Life story of the brutal murder of Otto Lange, the mutilation of his little daughter and the beating up of his aged mother, in Texas, by Ku Kluxers, and the unavailing efforts of the Lieutenant-Governor of Texas to bring the murderers to justice, because the Ku Klux Klan is resisting these efforts with all its power.

"It was a deed of cowardly bullying to put up those posters in this helpless little village, and no doubt many of its people are alarmed, as well they may be, knowing what this masked band can do and has done. It was characteristic of the klan to select a little town for this display of its intention to capture the great State of Missouri. 'The Ku Klux Klan is in your midst,' the posters read. Very much so. But what about the duly constituted State authorities? Is Jefferson City aware of what has occurred at Mokane and what answer will it make to this challenge of brutal lawlessness?"

aprons, blue denim shirts and half rimmed steel spectacles. Some work at night by candle light. The soul of the past is ever with them.

Despite the fact they do not keep in step with the running world about them I am told that nearly all of the bootmakers are men of independent fortunes and one has heavy investments in real estate that has quadrupled in the past quarter of a century.

There are also on 47th-st several old time saddlers shops. They cater to the fashionable patrons of the riding academies and cling to the traditions in the same manner as the bootmaker.

What one misses most in New York are the characters who make the small town so interesting. There appear to be no itinerant whitewashers or fiddlers. There are no lovable old fellows vender, simple souls who whittle ships in side bottles, play tunes on peach leaves and recite poems to children. In our town Whitewash Jones lived. He roamed the hills in the spring for medicinal herbs which he boiled into nostrums in his kitchen back of Schreck's meat shop. He had a cure for everything save the racking cough which finally carried him off at the age of 91. He played lightly with life—drank hard, slept in doorways and was generally considered worthless. But the children loved him and he loved them.

In the Public library is a copy of the "Daily Advertiser" of January 1785. Perusing its yellow stained pages one finds the beginning of the Astors' commercial career. Here is one item:

"John Jacob Astor, next door but one to the Friend's Meeting House, has for sale an assortment of Pianofortes of the newest construction which he will sell on reasonable terms. He gives cash for all kinds of furs and has for sale a lot of Canada Beaver and beaver coating, Raccoon skins, etc."

Seven infant musical prodigies have made their bow to New York so far and the season is not over. Their parents hire a hall, fill it with relatives and friends and the youngsters in curls and sashes "do their stuff." Each has a press agent who tells of the dazzling technique and "great promise." The children seem frightfully bored by it all and one imagines they would much rather be making mud pies or playing with dolls. It is told of one child who in a moment of reaction cried to her parents: "I don't want to be one of those infant prodigals." One little prodigy at Town Hall, who was butchering a classic with amateur fingers, slipped off the piano stool. The audience tittered and the mother had a fit of hysteria that made her a semi-invalid.

FIERY, ITCHING SKIN IS QICKLY SOOTHED WITH THIS SULPHUR

Mentho Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing else does fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, as a rule, is gone and the skin is gloriously clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY
From The Tribune Files

After a brief illness of lung fever, Chester Geese, aged 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Geese, of Fresno, died Thursday evening.

George Edgar received a telegram Thursday announcing the death of his brother-in-law, James Long, a former Coshocton man, which occurred at the late home in Medina Thursday morning.

Gilbert Lorenz, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lorenz, of Chesterhill, is quite ill at the home of his brother, William Lorenz, of Chili.

Contractor Heinke, of Zanesville, yesterday put a force of men to work breaking ground for the new Keene school building.

Fire of mysterious origin completely destroyed the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams located two miles south of Monawk Village Saturday morning.

The S. and M. Tire and Rubber Company Saturday received two carloads of heavy machinery which will be installed soon.

Harry Futz, of Canal Lewisville, was badly injured Saturday morning when the horse which he was driving became frightened and threw him from the buggy.

WALT MASON

THANKSGIVING

My gratitude confessing, I humbly parson my lyre, for I have every blessing a mortal could desire. My health is vastly better than 'twas a year ago, the toothache and the tetter are gone, or nearly so. My brindled cow is yielding large quantities of such, the spade I'm deftly wielding digs up all kinds of spuds. I've prospered in my dealing, no plans have gone awry, and care has hit the ceiling, and I'm a grateful guy. Most faithfully I've striven to help good works along, and gladly I've forgiven the gent who did me wrong. I have no ancient grudges, I'm more than neighbor smart; there is no pilgrim trudges his path wit lighter heart. I envy no one's bundle, I look at no one's car, as joyfully I trundle my person near and far. I'm thankful that my labors prove safe and sane and sweet, I'm grateful I have my neighbors are all as good as wheat. My cottage is not humble but here my flattree grows, I hear the bright bees bumble while looking for glucose; I hear my aunts uniting in grateful happy song, and at this present writing I'm sane and fairly strong. Back in my door lantana vine growing nine feet high, and I have no biliousness a happy wight am I. Then talk of things distressing and weep and moan and pray, but overcurrent's a blessing that seems to come my way.

PEOPLES' FORUM

THE "RED" CRUSADE.

Editor The Tribune:

The famous "red raids" of former Attorney General Palmer which shook the nation three years ago and cost the American taxpayers over $2,000,000, illegally spent are termed a stupendous and cruel hoax in a new book, THE DEPORTATIONS DELIRIUM OF 1920, by Hon. Louis F. Post, former Assistant Secretary of Labor, and published by Charles H. Kerr & Company, of Chicago.

A bulletin, "And Now It Has Been Told," just issued by the National Popular Government League of Washington, D. C., the organization which published the famous "Report of the 12 Lawyers" upon Palmer's illegalities, gives a startling summary of the book. From this it is clear that no record of a Cabinet officer within memory has been given such a drastic exposure by another officer of the same administration as contained in Post's book. Moorfield Storey, the distinguished Boston lawyer and former president of the American Bar Association, has written an introduction to the book in which he states "there was no conspiracy to overthrow this government and no evidence was ever produced which excused the action of the government." He asserts that newspaper statements inspired by the Department of Justice as to what the Reds were doing and planning were "false and misleading."

The two outstanding features of the book are the amazing paucity of the tangible evidence of revolution on which Palmer based his claims and Post's charge that the real forces back of Palmer were the labor-baiting interests.

As to the latter, he says "the whole Red crusade seems to have been saturated with labor spy interests—the interests, that is, of private detective agencies which in the secret service of masterful corporations were engaged in generating and intensifying industrial hatreds and suspicios." He says that government detectives were working in close co-operation with the "labor spies" of the big business interests. Further, that while most people were honest in their denunciation of agitators because they had been misled "the cooler minds at the top" were the ones that "caused and fostered our deportations delirium."

After a full survey of the official evidence, the tangible "makings" out of which Palmer constructed his Red scare boils down to the following:

(1) A "canoeful" of dangerous Reds.

(2) Four pistols and some stage muskets used in amateur theatricals.

(3) Four iron balls (alleged to be bombs) "which must have dissolved in water."

(4) "Revolutionary documents" which never materialized.

(5) Some actual bomb outrages, the origin of which—whether by real conspirators, individual fanatics, or private detective agencies—never has been discovered by the Department of Justice, and is a moot question to this day.

PENNY ANTE THE THIRSTY FELLOW By JEAN KNOTT

BRINGING UP FATHER —By Geo. McManus

Here's a popular way to serve Kellogg's Bran—greatest health food!

Most every one who realizes how effective Kellogg's Bran is for the permanent relief of constipation has their own particular way of serving this wonderful cereal. Most families eat it as a cereal with milk or cream. Others sprinkle it on their favorite hot or cold cereal. Every one enjoys its nut-like flavor!

If you are cooking a hot cereal try this method:—Measure off two tablespoonfuls for each member of the family. Mix it with the cereal and cook as you always cook the cereal.

Kellogg's Bran is scientifically prepared and ready to eat, but its regulatory powers are in no way impaired if you cook it with other cereals.

Kellogg's Bran has won the friendly recommendation of physicians because it does give prompt and permanent relief from mild or chronic constipation and because it can be eaten without forming a habit. Again, Kellogg's Bran will free you from drastic, dangerous cathartics.

When constipation conditions exist in your system or when you are threatened, do not take half-way measures. Foods with a partial bran content cannot free you! What you must have is Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL BRAN! Go the limit; get relief!

Every member of your family will delight in eating Bran raisin bread, muffins, pancakes, macaroons, etc. Recipes on every package.

Start eating Bran to-day! Get well—keep well—keep disease out of your home! First class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

Why Girls
Are not prettier—why women grow old
By Edna Wallace Hopper

I was a plain girl but I made myself a famous beauty. I have reached the age of 62, but I keep my youthful [illegible]. Countless young girls envy my hair and my complexion.

[illegible] helps ever did [illegible] results to women. I searched the world for the best [illegible] in existence. I spent a [illegible]. To them I [illegible] and perennial [illegible] career.

Now I have placed these identical [illegible] at your call. [illegible] to women [illegible] I urge you to let [illegible] bring to you what they brought [illegible].

The great mistakes

[illegible]

Clay [illegible] essential. [illegible]

[illegible] is my [illegible] Youth Clay. [illegible] It brings a rosy, clear [illegible] It removes the causes of blackheads and blemishes. It firms the skin, combats the lines and wrinkles. My [illegible] Youth Clay will amaze and delight you. I urge you to see what it does. The cost is 50 cents and $1.

Scientific creams

[illegible] Youth Cream—a cold cream. It contains both lemon and strawberry. Also all the best that science knows to soften, feed and foster the skin texture.

I use it after the clay. Also as a night cream, also daytimes as a powder base. Never is my skin without it. I want you to learn what Youth Cream means to you. It costs only 60 cents.

My Facial Youth is a liquid cleanser which I found in France. Great beauty experts the world over now employ it. It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. But it clears to the depths, and removes from the skin all the dirt and [illegible] which nothing else can reach. You will know for the first time what a clean skin means when you apply my Facial Youth. The cost is [illegible] cents.

HE IS LOOKING 'EM OVER AGAIN

"Eight years of stomach and liver trouble reduced me to a walking skeleton. My skin was dried up and as yellow as a twenty-dollar gold piece. I was filled with gas and had severe pains in my right side. I could not think and had lost all ambition to do anything. Doctors' medicine did not touch me. My cousin advised Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which snatched me from the grave. I have gained sixty pounds, eat like a hired man and am looking 'em over again." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Wimmer-Arnold Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

KIDNEY TROUBLE?

The Kidneys are the Blood Filters —When they Weaken and Stop Up —the System Becomes Overloaded with Uric Acid.

Cincinnati, Ohio—"For about four years I suffered with my kidneys being out of order. I had severe pains thru my back just across the kidneys and I would become so dizzy at times I would have to lie down until it passed off. I also had inflammation of the bladder and suffered from a burning and smarting. The excretion had a thick sediment and a very often sme odor. I suffered constantly. I tried many kidney medicines without relief until I began taking Dr Pierce's Anuric (kidney and backache) Tablets. They gave me the first relief in four years. Since taking them I have not experienced any more trouble. The backache left me and my kidneys are active and normal. I have no more bladder trouble. The urine has cleared up and I am feeling fine. I can do my work with ease and comfort in fact I feel like a new man. I do not hesitate to recommend Dr Pierce's Anuric (kidney and backache) Tablets to all who suffer with kidney ailments."—Wm Jones, 254 Broad St.

Don't wait for serious kidney ailments to set in. Help your weak kidneys with Dr Pierce's Anuric. At all drug stores or send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package.

COUNTY SUP.

1897, two and one-half miles south of Warsaw. He attended district school at Hopedale and Ohio Northern University at Ada. As county examiner he served from 1892 to 1898, 1905 to 1911, and from 1914 to 1924. He taught high school five years at West Bedford, one year at Warsaw, five years at Roscoe, five years at Keene and nine years at Nellie. In all he taught 42 years in public schools of the county.

He took office as county superintendent August 1, 1914. His resignation was offered in September, 1923, because of declining health, and accepted by the county board of education November 28, to take effect January 1, 1924.

His successor, Mr Pigman, is a man of a lifetime of school experience.

He was born March 20, 1872, at New Guilford and attended schools of Perry, local normal schools in the county and later attended summer school at Ohio State University. He has taken extension work, and is still taking it, in Ohio University.

Mr. Pigman taught ten years in the rural schools of the county, and several more in village and high schools. For eight years he was superintendent of the Warsaw schools, and also taught high schools at New Guilford and West Bedford.

He was a member of the county board of school examiners from 1911 to 1914.

Upon leaving the Warsaw schools, he became assistant county superintendent in 1921 having served in that office two and one half years. He is thoroughly familiar with the duties of superintendent and is expected to prove as capable and efficient in this office as he has been as assistant.

ANCIENT LAWS

over such details, for he lost it.

If the original owner could prove ownership and the buyer could produce the thief from whom he had bought, that thief also had a brief run of hard luck. But if the buyer failed to produce the thief he was called a liar and soon thereafter was in communion with his ancestors.

The greatest problem of modern times, divorce, was no problem at all to Hammurabi. He was the first exponent of trial marriages. If a man cared not for his wife he merely returned her "dot," or marriage settlement, to her father, together with other gifts, and he again was a bachelor. If a wife became indiscreet her husband could take another wife without further ceremony, and the offender was forced by law to slave in his home as maid-servent to the new wife.

ASSAULT TRIVAL.

Assault and battery were charges comparatively easy to escape in those days, if a man could remember the formula. All he had to do was to say, "I struck him without intent," and his total liability was the doctor's bill. If the victim happened to succumb, and the assailant had uttered the magic words, it was considered that one "mana" of silver patched up the affair nicely.

Sons and daughters were cruelly repressed. They were not allowed to strike father. If the son did, by royal edict he lost his fingers, like the unsuccessful physician.

Sound construction of buildings was assured by the statute which exacted the life of the contractor if a building collapsed and caused the death of a tenant. Cutting the costs by flimsy construction was the last thing a contractor considered.

Proper conduct of the courts of law was made certain by a chapter which placed death as the penalty for perjury of filing a wrongful charge. Even the judge had to walk a chalk line in his decisions. If he decided a case and then reversed himself, twelve times the amount of the fine was the price he had to pay. Hammurabi's judges made a point of getting their decisions right in the first place.

WASH YOUR KIDNEYS BY DRINKING WATER

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U S Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, E. A. Johnson, 509 W. Lake St., Chicago, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also, if you want to explain how you can make big money and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

TWO STORIES OF MAGIC AND TREASURE

An Ancient Story

In the "Arabian Nights," there is a mythical story of a Treasure Cavern which could be entered only when some person stood before the door and pronounced the magic words, "Open Sesame!"

A Modern True Story

In our world of today, there is the true story of the Christmas Club, which can be joined by any person who brings to this bank one coin, and speaks the simple words, "Open Club Account."

The money accumulated in Christmas Clubs in the United States each year is far greater than the treasure which the ancients ever imagined could exist. And this huge total is accumulated by members who hardly miss the weekly deposits.

Thus the Magic of Habit and Simple Arithmetic surpasses the Magic of Ancient Legend.

We invite you to select one of the plans listed below, and join our Christmas Club today.

		One Year
25c	Even-Deposit Class	$ 12.50	Plus Interest
50c	Even-Deposit Class	25.00
$1	Even-Deposit Class	50.00
$2	Even-Deposit Class	100.00
$5	Even Deposit Class	250.00
$10	Even-Deposit Class	500.00
5c	Decreasing Class	63.75
5c	Increasing-and-Decreasing Class	32.50
10c	Increasing-and-Decreasing Class	65.00
20c	Increasing-and-Decreasing Class	130.00
2c	Increasing-and-Decreasing Class	13.00
2c	Decreasing Class	25.50
1c	Decreasing Class	12.75
1c	Increasing Class	12.75

You may pay as far in advance as you wish. The Club ends early in next December.

Remember, our Christmas Club will share its treasure with you, only after you have come into our bank and pronounced the words, "Open Club Account." Starting comes before finishing.

cured centuries before the coming of Columbus. But the expendition failed, because America was not to be given to the Mohammedans. God in his providence had another use for this country.

The Chinese make a direct claim to having discovered this continent many centuries ago. Charles G. Leland has written a work entitled, "The Discovery of Priests in the Fifth Century." Here the claim is made that a Buddhist monk visited New Mexico in the year 499 A. D., or nearly a thousand years before Columbus came to these shores.

But for some reason no permanent settlement was effected, and the knowledge of the discovery of America was lost. Not to the Chinese, the followers of Confucius, was this country to be given. The God of Nations had another use for America.

The claim also seems well founded that the Norsemen discovered this continent about the year 1000 A. D., or nearly five hundred years before the time of Columbus. In the old Norse records, it is related that one hundred and fifty of their number made a voyage to a distant land. In Bristol County, Mass., is an inscription on the solid rock which is thought by many scholars to so agree with the Norse records as to lead to the conclusion that this was the "distant land" visited by these hardy seamen. But bear in mind this fact, that for some reason this people did not effect a permanent settlement here, and the knowledge of the discovery of America was again lost.

Not to the Norseman with his ancient hero-worship, and mythology was this country to be given.

The Divine Controller of history had another use for America.

From the Mohammedans with their fake prophet; from the Chinese with their Confucianism; from the Norsemen with their mythology; from the Aztecs and the Mound-builders, and the earlier inhabitants of this country, the land was withheld. For what purpose? To whom was the country to be given?

Remember, it was in 1517 that Martin Luther nailed his immortal theses to the door of the Castle Church in Wittemberg. Soon the bitter persecution of the Reformers began. Just twenty-five years before Luther nailed his propositions to the church door in Germany, Columbus discovered America. About the time, therefore, that the Protestant Reformation had reached full headway, and persecution began in earnest, the fact of America's existence became known to the Old World. Is there no philosophy in this? No logic in such events?

Religious persecution in England and the Puritans came and then the Quakers. Religious persecution in France, and more than half a million Hugenots came. Religious persecution in Scotland, and the hardy Covenanters fled for refuge to our shores. Religious persecution in Austria, and the earnest, consecrated Moravians came.

But pressing this point no further we can plainly see that both in earlier and later days there has been a wonderful Providence in American history.

II. Again let us thank God for the present government with which we are blessed, the best government in the world.

We have corruption and dishonest politicians, it is true, but the form of our government is good, and taken all together, it is exceedingly well carried out. To a large degree we are self-governing. Every man has a voice and vote in the Republic. The faults of our government are only those faults which are inseparably attached to our common nature.

In the time of a general national election, we are reminded of the great principle of civil liberty for which our nation has ever stood and upon which the cause of liberty depends. It is interesting to view this phase of American national life from the standpoint of so eminent a statesman and orator as John Bright. We quote the following from an address delivered by him, in which, referring to the presidential election, he says:

"Every four years there springs from the vote created by the whole people a president over that great nation. I think the world offers no finer spectacle than this: it offers no higher dignity; and there is no greater object of ambition on the political stage on which men are permitted to move. You may point, if you will, to hereditary rulers, to crowns coming down through successive generations of the same family, to thrones based on prescription or on conquest, to scepters wielded over veteran legions and subject realms, but to my mind there is nothing more worthy of reverence and obedience, and nothing more sacred,than the authority of the freely chosen magistrate of a great and free people; and if there be on earth and among men any right divine to govern, surely it rests with a ruler so chosen and appointed." This is the opinion of one of England's great statesmen with regard to our method of government.

We realize that there are some people, who express an indifference to national affairs on the ground that their citizenship is in heaven. We have very little sympathy with such a spirit and believe it is fundamentally wrong. Those who neglect the simple and obvious duties of citizenship in this world, will certainly make poor citizens in the world to come. It is a duty and a God-given privilege that we should defend the cause of national liberty by the exercise of the ballot, and no man has a right to be indifferent or careless in the exercise of this right.

We believe it is the Christian duty of every man to interest himself in the welfare of society and of the nation, and to use his best judgment in the appointment of those who are to exercise authority in the government.

There is very little sense in a man's neglecting the ballot, and then bemoaning the degeneracy and corruption in the political world. There is corruption in our government, but let us thank God today that our government is as good as it is, and be thankful that we are not living under some God-less despot.

All moral government finds its perfection in self government, which means God's law of love so written in the minds and hearts of men that they obey it by choice and habit.

Human government is always imperfect, because it is human, and it should be our constant endeavor as Christians to improve it. In a nation like ours there are great opportunities for this, in the ballot-box, free speech, free press, and all our free institutions; but most of all in the opportunities for right training of children and youth, and for increasing knowledge for all. It sometimes happens that men holding public office, abuse or neglect it, and so we all ought to do our best to have the fittest men in authority and to help them do the best they can in the exercise of the authority that is given into their hands. And so today we thank God for our government and our prayer is that the public and private instruction of the people of our land, may be such as to cultivate an increased respect for our government and for obedience to law, without which liberty cannot be, nor the nation long survive. By living in obedience to law and to our government, capital will be secure, labor will be protected and prosperous, and the people virtuous and happy. Then men will fall asleep in life's quiet evening, only to awaken amid the soft splendor of the eternal dawn.

III. Let us thank God for a nation of homes.

If there has been a decline in the strictly religious observance of Thanksgiving Day—and that can hardly be denied—the holiday is no less a home festival than it has been in the past. Families in many instances no longer gather at the ancestral homestead—for often the homestead is too far away, and time too precious. The Iowa family cannot travel back to the Massachusetts hills, nor the Oregon family to Ohio.

But in each several household there is a centre of simple hospitality, not the less delightful because the "great dinner" is the unfeigned goal of anticipation for the younger members. There is nothing ignoble about a feast-day, in the literal sense of the word. We misjudge our Puritan forefathers if we attribute to them an ascetic disregard of such mundane matters, forgetting that the Thanksgiving dinner, as well as the Thanksgiving service, originated with them. It is because the daily taking of food is the chief social opportunity of most families, because such an occasion as the Thanksgiving dinner brings out all that is bright and cheerful and wholesome in the spirit of conversation, that this home festival becomes a most encouraging sign of national soundness and stability.

Even on Thanksgiving Day we can not altogether forget the darker side of American life, the industrial oppression, the growing monopolies, the municipal corruption; but these sink to their proper place when it is remembered that, after all, the large majority of our population consists of men, women and children set apart in families and maintaining that institution which seems to be peculiar to the Teutonic and Anglo Saxon races, the home. We are a nation of homes. Subtract a few million dwellers in great cities, and foreign-born laborers, and the rest are to be reckoned not as individuals, but in groups. We do not believe that the divine institution of the family is decaying in the United States. The evils of the present systems of easy divorce are great, but they do not warrant any such pessimitic assertion. Despairing prophets might well look back over the history of the world and attempt to find any great nation whose social life was less stained with impurity than our own. This is not saying that things are not bad enough with us, but rather that they have been infinitely worse in the history of Europe from the earliest times, and mankind has survived the trial. There never was a more hopeful prospect for the survival of the home spirit, and the home influence on character than there is today.

But vigilance for the protection of the home cannot be relaxed safely. Leaders of social reform do well to fight easy divorce laws and sins against the family; they would do better if they could also exalt the positive value of the home, and rouse the sense of parental responsibility and filial loyalty which has in some cases begun to wane.

Christian ministers have no more important duty, next to their distinctly spiritual work, than to guard the homes of their congregation, so far as possible, from the invasion of these trifling discords which issue later in disruption and disaster.

They ought to beware of so crowding the hours of Sabbath with church services that no time is left for families to spend together at home. In some cases it might be a wise thing for parents to remind the pastor that the Sabbath is usually men who have learned to be faithful at home as well as in business. The higher ideas that are possible in this highest of human relations correct the moral crudities of the commercial world. Patriotism is most closely akin to the mingled pride and affection which binds the family together. It is not blind to faults, but it is long-suffering and unselfish. On this Thanksgiving Day when we beseech the God of Nations to save the commonwealth, every Christian heart will add the petition that the fountain-head of national purity and power be preserved inviolate.

In the sixty-eighth psalm and the sixth verse, we read, "He settleth the solitary in families." On the very face of these words lies the fact that God is the Originator of the home. He organized the home when he ordained the marriage relation. He Himself, performed the first marriage ceremony. One of the most cheering signs of our times is the profound study some of our ablest writers are giving to this vitally fundamental matter. Such things as this make it clearer than ever, that the deepest and tenderest thoughts of God, have gone into the home life of men. The best men and women of the ages have placed the home on the highest attainable plane; giving it as it deserves, the place any creation of God should have. Can any one hesitate for a moment to say that it was God's purpose, and still is, that the home should be the nursery of the finest traits of character and the finest qualities of mind and heart. Such manifestations as these do exist and are being assiduously cultivated in multitudes of American homes today. It was clearly the purpose of the Divine Origination of the home life that it should foster in the husband and father the possession of the manliest qualities a human soul ever had; that it should foster in the wife and mother the richest and rarest exhibitions of every kind of womanly excellence; that it should foster in the children the growth and early maturity of traits that have made earth-homes heaven.

Friends, if we care for the home, society is safe. No community can help growing cosmopolitan as things are today. The intermingling of nations is developing nations—all of them. In proportion as one rises it lifts the others with it. This our mission in the home, and we cannot get away from it. We are a nation of homes. But, let us beware how we boast or go forward in our own strength. Other nations have risen, culminated in splendor, and faded into insignificance. Thrones have tottered and kings have died. Monuments that the builders hoped would stand forever, have crumbled to dust. The great Massillon, as he arose to deliver the funeral oration of Louis XIV., laid his hand upon an urn containing a lock of the dead king's hair, and amid the tearful silence, exclaimed, "God alone is great." And so may we too as a nation realize that great truth, and on this Thanksgiving Day, may a more perfect peace, a deeper gratitude take possession of our hearts, and a richer service be rendered in return for all God's benefits.

SYRUP PEPSIN
And so do the children

Some Families Are Never Ill

FORTUNATE are the children whose parents fully realize the seriousness of constipation. Hospital records prove that 75 per cent of all disease originates in bowel obstruction, or constipation. Young children cry because of it; school children are hampered in their studies; grown people are made 25 per cent less efficient; elderly people's blood pressure increases 28 per cent. Realizing this Mrs. Carrie Moss of 1714 Church st., Lynchburg Va., Mr. Louis C. Grahl of 1569 Winton ave., Lakewood, Ohio, and innumerable others, give a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at the first sign of constipation, and have no sickness among their children.

Largest Selling Laxative

Every up-to-date family medicine chest should contain a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and palatable aromatics, a prescription written 30 years ago by Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who practiced medicine 47 years. You can buy a bottle in any store where medicines are sold, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. We guarantee that if you will give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to a child or for a few nights to an adult it will relieve any case of constipation no matter how chronic, or your money will be refunded.

10 Million Bottles a Year

Use it once and you will never again take coal-tar drugs in candy form, calomel or salts. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a vegetable laxative free from opiates and narcotics. It can be safely given to infants, yet it effectively moves the bowels of adults. It acts gently; does not cramp or gripe. Keep it in the house and use it for any indication of bowel obstruction such as constipation, biliousness, torpid liver, dyspepsia, pimples and like skin eruptions. Give it early and it will break up a fever or a cold overnight. A spoonful proves it.

THE FINISH IN SIGHT

All Reports Indicate a Splendid Ending for the Seventh Red Cross Roll Call.

—Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, Completed the period of the Seventh Red Cross Membership Roll Call. There may be a few city precincts and county districts, which, for unavoidable reasons, were not completed within the specified time. If there are such these should be finished at the earliest possible date.

—Fifteen of the twenty city precincts and nine of the thirty seven county districts had completed their canvass and made their report to the Red Cross office prior to the closing dates. These reports are indicative of a very gratifying finish when all returns are in and tabulated.

—It is important that all reports be received at as early a date as possible and captains who have not yet reported are urged not to delay the matter, of their final report, any longer than is absolutely necessary.

—Bring or send your reports to the Red Cross offices, in the Frew Building, so that the Chapter may be able to make its report to National headquarters, at Washington, within the specified time.

—The Captains reports, as far as received, indicate thoro and efficient effort and now let us give the Seventh Red Cross Roll Call a triumphant finish.

Have You Piles?

Then You Have Something to Learn

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy. His prescription, HEM-ROID, is now sold by all druggists. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Wimmer-Arnold Co. today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and should do the same for you—it seldom fails.

GOOD DRY CORN

We have a car load of No. 1 shelled corn that has less than 15 per cent moisture. This car is on track today. New corn has about 23 to 25 per cent moisture. This car of dry corn will be used in the preparation of our chops, ground corn feeds and cracked corn.

Special prices on quantity lots of shelled corn.

Good service will be given to telephone orders.

WHY DOTTY JUMPS OUT OF BED.

EVERY morning it was the same old story. Dotty's mama had to call her about a dozen times before she could get her out of bed. Then Dotty would be so slow that her mama would almost lose patience.

One morning she decided to let Dotty sleep and just see when she would get up. It was quite late when Dotty at last opened her eyes. The bright sun had just slipped behind a cloud, and that brought a frown to Dotty's face. She lazily lay down again and began to grumble about the weather. Then a tiny, cricket-like voice sounded from the peach tree beside her window and she lay quiet and listened:

"Rip-py-dee-fix-it, lives by himself,
Happy and gay is this little elf.
He has never been known to be sad,
'Cause he's never been very bad.
He heigh, ho-hum, tiddle-dee-day,
Listen, my friend, to what I say."

Dotty slowly pushed first one foot then the other from under the covers and tip-toed over to the window.

He Smiled and Winked.

There on a peach-tree branch, right by her window, sat a dear little elfin, swinging back and forth and humming softly. When he spied Dotty looking at him, he smiled and winked.

"Well, good-morning," he said in a squeaky, cricket-like voice. "Did I awaken you with my chatter?"

"No, I was awake before I heard you singing," replied Dotty. "But that was a funny little song. Where did you learn it?"

"I didn't learn it," squeaked the funny little elfin in the cricket-like voice. "I made it up myself. You see, I'm Rip-py-dee-fix-it, from Hide-away town. To see you, dear, I've just jumped down. I've been watching you for ever so long and every day you get up with a frown. Why? Because you get up too slowly. Listen:

"Jump out of bed and you'll start out right,
No matter whether it's gloomy or bright.
Then the day will surely be crowded with fun,
Happy you'll be till the setting sun."

"There you have it in a nutshell," he laughed as he finished the queer, cricket-like song. "It makes one cross to crawl out of bed slowly. Jump out of bed, jump into your clothes and you'll find all the difference in the world in your disposition. Lazy actions make lazy, unhappy little girls and boys. Now you try it to-morrow. If I'm not right, I'll eat every twig on this peach tree."

Before Dotty could say a word the little elfin opened a peach bud and disappeared within it. Dotty laughed. She hummed the queer little song all the time she was dressing. The very next morning she tried getting up in Rip-py-dee-fix-it's way and it worked like magic.

If you don't believe it, try Rip-py-dee-fix-it's idea yourself, little readers, and see how it works.

Leila and Madge Didn't Go to the Hospital.

MINDFUL of Katherine's admonition to keep Leila from the hospital as long as possible, I put her in a taxi and gave the driver our apartment address, without her hearing it. When we arrived, she looked at me, startled.

"But this can't be the hospital," she said.

"It isn't," I rejoined. "It's my 'be it ever so humble' and the rest of it. You're coming up to have a cup of tea and be down before we go to the hospital. I know Dr. Braithwaite. He'll only let us stay a minute or two. Alfred probably has been cooling his heels in the reception room most of the time since he has been there. So we might as well stay here. I can get Alfred on the telephone at the hospital after awhile, and he can tell us what time to go over."

I purposely made my tone emphatic, and Leila uttered no demur. But I guessed that she was restive, and I was as glad as I was surprised upon turning the key in the lock of the apartment hall door to find the living room door partly ajar, to sniff the odor of Dicky's favorite tobacco, and to find both Alfred and Dicky smoking as if their lives depended upon their finishing their cigars at a certain second.

Both men sprang to their feet, but neither showed any surprise at our entrance. Instead, Dicky said astonishingly:

"We thought you never were coming. We've been waiting an hour."

Dicky's Playfulness.

"But how did you know we were coming here instead of to the hospital?"

"Deduction, as practiced by a great mind, little one," Dicky answered airily. "My illustrious brother-in-law turned Alf out five minutes after they reached the hospital, and he, being lonesome, telephoned me. I at once brought up the heavy artillery and inquired after the aviation corps——"

"If you refer to us," I interrupted, drawing myself up in pretended dignified offense, and taking the cue of nonsense which Dicky had thrown to me, "I wish to announce right now that the altitude ascensions in our respective families are made by the masculine, not the feminine members."

"Listen to her, will you?" Dicky demanded dramatically of Alfred. "Where does she get that stuff? Anyway, Madam, you interrupted me; but I suppose you want the conversation along strictly feminine lines. All right then. Harriet's husband told Leila's husband to get to—Chicago—out of there, and Leila's husband told your husband that Katherine's husband's wife told him you were to keep—that you two were to clear up things and look up the house. Your husband, having been married to you for some time, knows that after any exertion, physical or mental, you simply must have your cup of tea, made in your especial fashion, so—your husband told Leila's husband——"

Leila Takes Heart.

"Dicky!" I exclaimed dramatically. "If you say another word of that rigmarole, I shall call in the police reserves. If your deductive mind is working so smoothly, it's a wonder you wouldn't have had the tea kettle on for us. Come, Leila, let's leave these two by themselves. They're hopeless."

"Why DO women marry?" Dicky sent the words after us in a squeaking falsetto, which brought a half-hearted laugh even from Leila. I realized, thankfully, that she had not noticed the slip of speech by which Dicky so nearly had betrayed Katherine's ruse to keep her away from the hospital.

"I wonder when we are to see Mother," Leila asked worriedly as I started the cold water tap and filled the tea kettle.

"I fancy some time in the early evening," I answered. "Suppose we don't worry about it now. I wonder if those boys would like a cup of tea."

"I'll ask them," Leila volunteered and returned in a few seconds, looking a little more like her normal, cheery self.

"They said nothing doing in the tea line," she reported, "and Dicky issued instructions not to drink too much tea, for they are going to take us out to an early dinner before we go to the hospital. I feel like crying rather than eating, but Alfred says I must, that I look like a ghost."

I gave an unconscious little sigh as I saw how quickly her drooping spirits had revived with the tonic of her husband's solicitude. She was so absolutely dependent upon him for her happiness, almost for her life. Would he ever fail her?

BACK HOME FOR THANKSGIVING -:- By Juanita Hamel

Copyright, 1923, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc., Great Britain rights reserved.

THANKSGIVING—a time for rejoicing, a time for merry-making! And all those who travel far to see the world know there is only one place to celebrate the day—home! Outside, the world is cold, but at home—ah, me! No matter how long the journey has been, Dad's kind smile and Mother's fond embrace make it well worth any sacrifice to come. But a short time since she had left the hearth to make all her dreams come true. But now, once more she returns to the old homestead—a little wiser, a little older but still the same child to those who love her and welcome her with true holiday good cheer!

Waging Relentless Warfare on Two Enemies to Beauty

By LUCREZIA BORI

The Famous Spanish Prima Donna

LUCREZIA BORI

THERE are two enemies to beauty which seem to marshal their forces periodically and come forth to wage war. Even the woman who is forever on the alert to cultivate every ounce of the charm rightfully hers is not immune to their attacks.

These two arch enemies are blackheads and enlarged pores. Watchful as you may be in the care of your complexion, close scrutiny in your mirror may warn you from time to time that the enemies are at work again. But if you follow the creed of preparedness by keeping yourself armed with intelligent beauty aids, you'll have no trouble in restoring the fresh beauty of your skin.

If you haven't blackheads now, remember how to treat them when you are threatened. If they've already invaded the smoothness of your complexion, the present minute is none too early to begin waging war against them.

The only implements of war you need are a good camel's hair complexion brush, a bit of soda and a good toilet soap.

Begin by bathing your face thoroughly in warm water in which you have dissolved soda, a teaspoonful to a quart of water. Soap your brush well and scrub your face with it.

This word "scrub" may sound a bit ominous, but when you realize the smooth softness of a camel's hair complexion brush you won't think the treatment too severe. You literally do scrub your face, always moving your brush upward. This braces your facial muscles up, not down. Brush up from the corners of your mouth and up from the corners of your nose and eyes. Give particular attention to the portions around your nose and mouth, as these are the places where ugly little blackheads like to camp.

Now rinse your face thoroughly in clear warm water and dry it gently on a soft towel. Don't rub your face briskly with the towel, simply pat it dry.

Next you apply the lotion for enlarged pores. This is:

Boric acid—1 dram.
Distilled witch hazel—4 ounces.

Put this over your face with a piece of absorbent cotton. Go through this routine for beauty's sake every time you wash your face, which will mean at least every morning and every night. You should not have to wait long to see your complexion improve and beauty reassert itself.

Often blackheads and enlarged pores are accompanied by a sallowness of complexion which is most disconcerting. This sallowness in turn is caused by a rundown condition. You should get plenty of sleep, good food, exercise and rest. When these friends of beauty have restored you to good physical condition, your circulation and complexion should take care of themselves.

Squeezing out blackheads is very injurious to your complexion. Never resort to this quick means of removing the offending blackhead. You may feel delighted at the speed of the operation, but you won't be delighted with the ugly print where you have pressed down with your nail.

HOW THE ENGLISH NAMED CONTINENTAL CITIES.

IN journeying about Europe, Americans are frequently surprised to find that the names of many of the principal cities are totally different from the names taught in our schools. It would be supposed that the natives of a country or a city had a right to name their native place, and that their names would be the right ones. YOUR HEALTH

Catarrhal Bronchitis Is Prevalent Just Now

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,

United States Senator from New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

R. S. COPELAND

SEASONS have their particular ailments. Some are due to the weather and some come from the different food. Dress, more or less out-of-door life, later hours with loss of sleep, greater or lesser amount of exercise—all these are personal factors which have their bearing on the general health.

This is the time of year when you must be on guard against bronchitis. There are several varieties of this disease, but the one I have in mind is what the doctors call "acute catarrhal bronchitis."

The word "catarrh" is used to describe and identify any inflammation of a mucous membrane which produces a marked increase over the normal mucous discharge. This term is used properly in all such cases, but it would not do to employ it in describing an inflammation where pus formed. The latter would be called "purulent" instead of catarrhal.

It is not uncommon for a catarrhal condition to terminate in pus formation. This is because the tissues are weakened by the catarrhal process. They are not strong enough to resist infection with any pus germ which happens along.

On account of this possibility it is important to give heed to any catarrhal disturbance and to get rid of it as soon as you can. You are in danger of greater trouble if you are negligent.

The bronchial tubes are lined with a mucous membrane which is continuous with that lining the nose, the mouth, throat and windpipe. These parts of the breathing apparatus are not separate and distinct portions of the human body. They are not individual things, like the neighboring but separate cars of a train. In their relationship to each other they more closely resemble the connecting rooms of a great house. You pass from the front parlor into the back parlor and then into the music room and so on into the library. The velvet carpet lining the floor is unbroken, stretching from front wall to back wall. The doorways are so wide that the rooms make, in reality, one grand apartment.

You see now why it is you must not neglect any acute disease attacking one part of these closely related organs. If you do not give heed, the mucous lining of all the neighboring parts will be involved very quickly.

In almost every climate most persons suffer more or less from catarrh. Usually it is catarrhal inflammation of the nasal tissues, but in time the trouble creeps down into the throat and so on down to the bronchial tubes. As long as the nasal membranes are so affected there is danger of sudden involvement of the bronchial tubes.

Acute catarrhal bronchitis is one of the most common of the diseases attacking children and frail adults. Exposure to cold, carelessness during perspiration with chilling of the body's surface, or anything else which weakens the resistance may be followed by this ailment. Anybody who is indifferent to the general causes may have it. It comes at any age and any season, but it is more common in the Winter.

When the attack comes on, especially if there is fever, go to bed and call your doctor.

Answers to Health Questions.

J. J. Q.—Some time ago a horse stepped on my arm near the wrist. At the present time I seem to be losing the use of my fingers on that hand. What would you advise me to do?

A.—This may be due to pressure on a nerve. Consult a neurologist for an examination to determine the underlying cause of your trouble, then treatment will be suggested.

S. M. Q.—Will you kindly tell me what to do for dry hands? My hands never perspire at any time.

A.—This is probably caused by inactive sweat glands of the hands. You should have an examination in an effort to locate the underlying cause, then treatment will be suggested. In the meantime try massaging your hands each night with a good cold cream.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

The Authority on Home Cooking

Recipes for Candies and Cakes.

HOLIDAY sweets are always a treat if home-made and well made. Candies can be quickly made after the big baking is out of the way. It is not necessary to have a lot of special pans and other paraphernalia for the work unless one desires to make the more complicated candies. It is foolish to try very difficult candies, however, unless one is experienced, for it is cheaper to buy this sort, whereas, simple sweets appeal to almost every one and cannot be bought. If a gas stove is used to cook the candy, use an asbestos mat over the flame, as this lessens the danger of burning the sugary mass which scorches so easily.

Black Walnut Delights.

Put two cupfuls of sugar with one cupful of corn syrup into a granite or white saucepan and boil the mixture gently until it forms a hard ball when tried in cold water. Without stirring it, add a teaspoonful of vanilla flavoring and turn it into a shallow, buttered dish. Have ready a small cupful of chopped black walnuts, or pecans if walnuts are not available, and sprinkle them quickly over the top so that they will sink into the hot mass. When slightly cool, pull the candy in the usual way, which will scatter the nuts through it perfectly. When it is pulled sufficiently cut the candy with sharp scissors into convenient pieces and drop them onto a slightly-buttered plate or wrap them up in wax paper. The latter is the better way if they are to be kept for a few days.

Raisin Fudge.

Put two cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of rich milk, a heaping tablespoonful of butter and a quarter of a cake of unsweetened chocolate, grated, into a granite saucepan and boil the mixture gently, stirring it continually until it forms a soft ball when tried in water. Have ready a pound of seeded raisins, chopped fine, with a half-pound of walnuts. Add a teaspoonful of vanilla to the mass, with the nuts and raisins and beat it until it is stiff, then turn it onto buttered pans. When it is cool mark the candy off in squares.

Molasses Cocoanut Candy.

Put a cupful and a half of real molasses into a saucepan, with a cupful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of butter. Boil the mixture gently until it forms a hard ball when tried in cold water, then stir in a cupful of fresh, grated cocoanut and pour the candy into a buttered shallow pan. When it is cool mark it off in squares.

White Fruit Cake.

This is an old-fashioned holiday cake and is very good. Put a scant cupful of butter into a warm mixing-bowl, with two cupfuls of sugar and work them together until they are incorporated, then add the beaten yokes of four eggs and beat in well with two teaspoonfuls of vanilla. Add three-quarters of a cupful of rich milk. Sift in one cupful of flour with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. When they are beaten smooth, add a second cupful of flour, then a third. Beat these ingredients smooth, then add the very stiffly-beaten whites of the eggs, folding them in lightly. Have ready a cupful of seeded raisins, a half-cupful of thinly-sliced citron and a half-cupful of washed currants—all dusted lightly with flour. Stir them in and pour them into a well-buttered, warm chimney-pan. The pan should be only three-quarters full. A little grated nutmeg and a saltspoonful each of cinnamon and cloves may be added and will give a higher flavoring. This cake should be placed over a cake-plate with the pan inverted. When the cake comes out and is cool, it may be frosted with a good soft frosting.

Gingerbread Layer Cake.

Mix a half-cupful of butter with a cupful of sugar, two beaten eggs, a cupful of molasses, a tablespoonful of ground ginger, a teaspoonful of allspice, a cupful of milk, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and two cupfuls of flour. Beat it, bake it in two layer pans and lay it up with soft frosting.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a man twenty-two years old and am working for an established firm. I have fallen in love with a very popular girl of twenty-one.

I am very wealthy in a sense for my father in his will left me a small fortune and a vast estate in my home town in another State, but I must support myself for one year before I get full control.

In the meantime we have become engaged and today she went out riding with two young men who were once callers.

I am gentleman enough to forget this for I love her enough to ask her to become my wife, and I love her enough to forget this, but she thinks she did no wrong.

If it should happen again I'm afraid I will break the engagement, seek employment elsewhere and when the time comes take control of what my father left me and go into business.

What should I do?

INVENTOR: Have a heart-to-heart talk with your fiancee and tell her that you do not think it fair of her to accept the attentions of other men. If she loves you, she will do as you wish.

Annie Laurie will welcome letters of inquiry on subjects of feminine interest from young women readers of this paper and will reply to them in these columns. Letters to Miss Laurie should be addressed to her, in care of this office.

Today's Fashion

By VERA WINSTON

This Gown Dispenses with a Belt in Order to Display a Wide Inset of Silver Lace.

THE beltless gown is coming into its own this season. It is always a very lovely style, but it is not becoming to many types of figure, so that its popularity is always restricted.

The model shown above is one of the most charming examples of this fashion. It is made of baby-blue taffeta over a slip of silver cloth. At the waist there is a wide inset of silver lace.

One of the most unusual notes of this frock is the cording which finishes the neck, armholes and hem,

HOROSCOPE

By Genevieve Kemble

According to the sidereal operations for this day, a change of a sudden or unanticipated nature may be looked for, involving possibly travel, which should ultimately bring advantage. But this good fortune should not be jeopardized by hasty or sarcastic speech. Neither should the pleasures of the great annual feast of Thanksgiving be hampered in spirit by an ill-governed temper or unguarded temper. Shun litigation and strife. All pertaining to writings or letters should prosper under the ruling Mercury.

Those whose birthday it is have the prospect of a year of change or travel, which should bring benefits. There should be a sharp guard on temper and bitter speech, however, as these may lead to disastrous strife and litigation. With care, business and professional matters should thrive. A child born on this day will be clever and versatile, but may be restless and hasty unless it is well trained in early youth.

New Liquid Whitens Yellow Teeth!

No more dull, yellowish teeth! No more teeth stained by tobacco or other discoloring substances. For a marvelous new liquid has been perfected which in just three minutes gives even the dullest teeth a wonderful new whiteness and sparkle. This new safe liquid, called Bleachodent, is the discovery of a prominent dentist. You just apply it to the teeth and they quickly take on a marvelous brilliance—a pearly whiteness. For Bleachodent contains certain harmless ingredients which actually curdle or dissolve the stains on teeth so that every unsightly blemish may be instantly removed by an ordinary tooth brush. Even after the first few applications your teeth will be so pearly white—so charmingly pretty and attractive—that they will be the admiration of all your friends.

Bleachodent is absolutely safe as it acts only on surface stains—not on enamel itself. Fine for the gums. Get Bleachodent today if you want snow white teeth. Full size bottle only a few cents. Money back if not delighted. Sold and guaranteed by all good drug and department stores such as Page & Lorenz, Wimmer-Arnold Co., McManus & Owens, Siegrist & Williams.

DONAHEY WISHES SUCCESS TO SEAL SALES CAMPAIGN

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 30. — Governor Donahey in a letter to Dr. W. O. Thompson, chairman of the Ohio Christmas Seal Committee, today expressed his hearty approval and best wishes for the sixteenth annual Christmas Seal sale which starts Saturday, December 1. The governor pointed out what the state is doing thru its health department, agricultural department and department of education to combat tuberculosis in Ohio. He also pointed out that Christmas Seals have been an important factor in this fight. In his letter to Dr. Thompson, the governor says:

"My Dear Dr. Thompson: I would be glad to have you convey to all those associated with you in promoting the sixteenth annual sale of Tuberculosis Christmas Seals my earnest hope for their success in this nation-wide appeal.

"The State of Ohio is vitally interested in health and particularly in combatting tuberculosis which claims more than five thousand of our people annually—most of them in the prime of life. Thru the State Department of Health, we have been conducting clinics to discover early cases of tuberculosis; in the schools, health instruction has become a matter of first consideration, and thru the State Veterinarian in the Department of Agriculture, we are carrying on a vigorous campaign to rid our state of a dangerous source of infection to childhood—bovine tuberculosis. Our state and local sanatoriums are expanding to care for the afflicted. We are making progress as indicated by a steadily declining death rate.

"The Christmas Seals help to spread information about this nation-wide campaign, and have been an important factor in the fight. I therefore trust that there may be a generous response on the part of all the people to your appeal this year.

"Sincerely yours,
"VIC DONAHEY,
"Governor."

FAIR TEACHER

look on the "mule" when it's white, it appears.

While he might gently endeavor to dissuade a teacher from harmful habits, he most assuredly would not "fire" her for her conduct outside school hours, Balsh indicated.

Ensued then the case of Miss Helen Clark, teacher of the fourth grade in the schools of Secaucus, N. J., whose alleged naughtiness included smoking cigarettes in bed, in automobiles, in school hours and in the streets and also keeping very late hours.

Helen was "tried" before the Board of Education and placed on "probation" for two months—during which time she must banish Lady Nick or give up her position.

The young woman also was charged with going about considerably with an automobile salesman. Her interest in the salesman also must be curbed, the board ruled, before the "suspended sentence" is lifted.

ment justified in operating Muscle Shoals even at a loss. This would checkmate the Ford plan of private operation. It would mean a loss of about fifty million dollars a year according to some estimates as the whole thing is very much of an experiment, but if Mr. Ford could risk it, so could the federal government. That's the view which many members of congress have been taking of the subjects and matters have reached the point where a bill passed by both houses would receive the approval of the president.

Mr. Coolidge has been told that in denying Mr. Ford the opportunity to develop Muscle Shoals, the government must provide some alternative that will satisfy the same sentiment that is back of Mr. Ford's campaign.

It seems almost certain that the alternative will be government operation of the Muscle Shoals. To this there may be the objection which has been made to government owenrship of other things such as shipping or railroads but here too the program would provide that the initiative taken and the capital furnished would be a governmental character only in the years of experimentation. When once the plant were able to turn out cheap fertilizer it could be leased to private concerns on terms favorable to the government in the ultimate return of the capital invested and guaranteed to give the farmer his fertilizer at agreed upon rates.

During the war the federal government bot the fertilizer product of Chile in a bulk and disposed of it to the American farmers so there is precedent for government handing of this problem in an emergency.

Unquestionably there will be renewed operation of the Muscle Shoals controversy at the coming session of congress but the administration is prepared to meet it with a specific plan for government operation viewing the present emergency as of practically the same economic importance to the country as the steps undertaken during the war to obtain fertilizer at reasonable costs.

Berths Emptied as Penna. Train Leaves Roadbed

Passengers On Eastbound Train Are Shaken Up And Bruised.

IN LONG TUNNEL

Broken Rail Derails 7 Coaches Early Today At Steubenville.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 30.— Scores of passengers on Pennsylvania train 154, eastbound from St. Louis to Pittsburgh, were hurled from their berths at 6:45 this morning, seven cars leaving the track when the train was passing thru Gould's tunnel, five miles west of here. Many were badly bruised and shaken up but none was seriously hurt.

The train was proceeding about twenty miles an hour thru the tunnel, the longest on the Pennsylvania system, when the accident occurred. Broken rail is attributed as the cause.

The engine and baggage car passed safely over the broken rail but a day coach and six Pullman cars left the rails, turned partially ovrr and scraped the walls of the tunnel. Considerable confusion resulted until members of the train crew informed the passengers that there was no danger. The accident occurred in the middle of the tunnel and passengers were assisted thru the dark passageway by the train crew and a special train was rushed to the tunnel's entrance and proceded to Pittsburgh.

Several wreck crews were summoned and it was stated it will be many hours before the tunnel is cleared. Seeral of the cars were badly wrecked.

FANS DISPLEASED

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—Fight fans here today were engaged in a bitter dispute over the victory awarded Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion in his bout with Carl Tremain, Cleveland bantum, last night. Many of the 8,000 fans who witnessed the contest hissed the decision.

Some ringside writers gave Tremain seven rounds, Genaro four and called one even. Both put up a game fight.

WIDOW SUES LIFE INSURANCE CO. FOR AMOUNT OF POLICY

Mary E. Reichley has filed a petition in common pleas court vs. The Western and Southern Life Insurance Company.

The plaintiff states that on July 30, 1915 the defendant duly executed their policy of insurance to Alva E. Reichley, her husband on his life in the sum of $2,500. In the policy the plaintiff is named as beneficiary. On December 6, 1915, Alva E. Reichley died. Up to the time of his death all premiums accrued on the policy had been duly paid, according to the plaintiff.

The plaintiff states that on October 9, 1923 she gave the defendant due notice and proof of the death of Alva E. Reichley, and demanded the payment of the policy, but no part has yet been paid. During each of the years 1916, 1917, 1918 and 1919, the plaintiff paid the annual premium of $28.23 amounting in all to $112.92.

The plaintiff asks judgment against the defendant in the sum of $2,612.92 with interest from October 9, 1923.

Attorneys Shepler and Burklew represent the plaintiff.

"Old Established School"

Many an old established school is now living upon its reputation of former years, and not upon its present success.

This school has never turned away a disappointed graduate, and never shall, because we do not make promises we can not keep. We are getting calls for efficient office help constantly. Business men call us when in need of help. They know that we teach the new way, that we have a line on the efficient.

New classes in both day and night school will be formed Dec. 3, at the
